MERCURY CLIMBS AGAIN AFTER SHOWERS

Smallest Corn Crop Since 1936 Predicted

SOARING PRICES OF MEAT, EGGS DUE TO FOLLOW

Dry Weather Through Grain Belt Blamed For Short Yield By Government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 — A government forecast of the smallest corn crop since the great drought of 1936 today presented the possibility of higher prices for meats, poultry, eggs and dairy products.

Some agricultural economists even talked of eggs selling at $1 a dozen as a result of the situation which also may bring about a downward revision of the grain export program.

The agriculture department's crop reporting board estimated the 1947 corn harvest as of Aug. 15 at two billion 437 million bushels, a drop of 223 million in prospective production Aug. 1.

THE BOARD blamed dry, hot weather throughout the corn belt for the outlook that the corn harvest will be 202 million bushels below average and 563 million bushels less than the agriculture department's original goal for the year.

Meanwhile, corn and oats climbed to new all-time record prices on the Chicago market. Fears that the lack of rain in the corn belt would cause further deterioration of the crop aroused a heavy demand for futures.

AGRICULTURE officials, in announcing October allocations of grain for export, said significantly that no corn is included.

However, total export allotments of other grains for that month currently are fixed at 1,213,000 long tons (48,536,000 bushels) or 16,500 long tons more than the September export quota.

There was no official statement on a possible reduction in grain exports, either by chopping earlier estimates for October or by setting aside smaller amounts in subsequent months.

Informed quarters insisted, however, that reduced supplies of feed grain unquestionably will be reflected in rising prices on livestock, meats and other foods.

ANTI-BRITISH RIOTING SPREADING TO EGYPT

CAIRO, Aug. 22—Anti-British rioting spread to Egypt today. Forty persons, including 10 mounted policemen, were reported injured in a demonstration in the Elzhar district of Cairo.

Rioting also was reported in Alexandria.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

The back to the soil movement is gaining converts but it seems odd to think of Elliott Roosevelt settling down with a plow and a deep freezer.

Elliott will farm 830 acres but he'll get more honest calouses on his hands than shaking hands with 830 back-slappers brought him.

There's one thing about a farm —I never signs an expense account for a party you didn't attend.

But I hear now that Elliott is going to raise Christmas trees. The Republicans will next investigate Santa Claus.

For future reports on Elliott, skip the Broadway columns and try the columns of the Farmer's Journal.

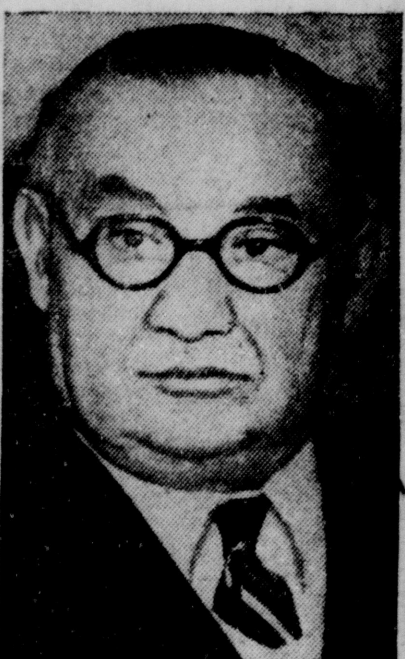

And now a bulletin from Schenectady—a robber made off with two steaks there—Police are considering offering a reward.

LONDON OBSERVERS report that Britain's Prime Minister Clement Attlee will resign "for reasons of health" as soon as British-American loan revision talks in Washington, D. C., pass the critical stage. The same observers forecast that Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin is most likely to take over the prime minister office, that Chancellor of the Exchequer Hugh Dalton will take the foreign post, and Sir Stafford Cripps, president of the Board of Trade, will be elevated to succeed Dalton.

BRITISH LOAN Unions 'Beat The Gun' On Taft-Hartley Law

Final Action On Proposed Revision Of Agreement Being Held Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Final action on the proposed revision of the Taft-Hartley agreement hinged today on full clarification of the United Kingdom's economic prospects for the balance of 1947 and the first half of 1948.

Sir Wilfred Eady, head of the British economic delegation to the Anglo-American financial talks now going on in Washington, estimated that the full picture will not emerge "for perhaps another few weeks."

In the meantime, Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder announced that the British delegation will hold further joint meetings with the President's national advisory council to discuss the British request for relaxation of restrictions on the use of dollar credit remaining in the fund.

Eady, in default of a definite estimate of British financial prospects, outlined to the conference "a general forecast" of the English trade prospects for the 1947-48 period.

SEARCH STARTED FOR HERBS USED IN NEW CURE

FREMONT, O., Aug. 22—Joseph David, a former Hungarian newspaperman, today instituted a nation-wide search for 10 pounds of rare chemicals needed in the synthetic processing of a newly-discovered cure for infant diarrhea.

According to David, the cure was discovered by his uncle, Dr. Louis David, head of the medicine research department of the University of Szeged, Hungary. David said that the drug is composed of herbs found both in the United States and Europe. Known as UD-3, the drug first came to light following the death of 84 infants aboard the "Honey-moon boat" ocean liner which was conveying European war brides to their American ex-GI husbands.

Dr. David, according to his nephew, now is attempting to manufacture the drug in wholesale quantities. He said he is aiding his uncle in the search for the chemical, calcium oxydatum, which is an essential ingredient of the formula.

ITALY SEEKS FUNDS

ROME, Aug. 22—Premier De Gasperi informed his cabinet today that in view of Italy's grave economic situation he has decided to request two more loans abroad. A loan of 100 million dollars will be asked from the import and export bank and an additional 250 million dollars from the world bank for international reconstruction.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—The Taft-Hartley labor law became fully effective today amidst a last-minute flurry of activity by unions to "beat the gun" on its sweeping restrictions.

Enacted by congress to promote industrial peace, final provisions of the statute went into operation at 12:01 o'clock this morning—60 days after its passage over President Truman's veto.

Forty seconds before the deadline, the Ford motor company and the CIO United Auto Workers announced completion of an agreement embodying UMW demands for a union shop and immunization against strike penalty provisions of the new law.

In New York, the AFL Longshoremen's association terminated a walkout of 1900 dockmen which has tied up 11 ships in order to avoid losing contract privileges under the Taft-Hartley statute.

AN EIGHT-DAY strike of the AFL seafarers international union against the Isthmian steamship line also was settled ahead of the deadline.

Two powerful unions, the AFL International Typographical Union and Harry Bridges' CIO longshoremen on the Pacific coast, served notice, however, that they will combat some provisions of the labor act.

The ITU announced that it will refuse to sign contracts with publishers but will post in each shop "conditions of employment" under which the men will work. The printers will insist on

SIEGEL'S GIRL FRIEND VICTIM OF SLEEP PILLS

MIAMI BEACH, FLA., Aug. 22—Virginia Hill, auburn-haired, 30-year-old playgirl friend of the late Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel, was reported in a serious condition at a Miami Beach hospital today suffering from an overdose of sleeping pills.

Police Chief P. R. Short said Miss Hill was admitted to St. Francis hospital last night after being in an unconscious condition most of yesterday.

The Miami Herald quoted Short as saying he went to the Hill home on Sunset Island about 9 p. m. and later announced that "she evidently took an overdose of sleeping pills."

Short said Jerri Mason, Miss Hill's secretary, and Charles "Chick" Hill, her brother, told him that Virginia was GROGGY when she went to bed Wednesday night and that her condition was worse Thursday morning.

1500 LAID OFF

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22 — About 1,500 employees of the Fisher body plant's Ternstedt division plant in Columbus were laid off today until September 2, a closed shop, despite the Taft-Hartley law's ban on this clause. Bridges' union, which represents many west coast dock foremen now on strike, prepared to fight against the law's withdrawal of union bargaining rights for supervisory workers.

THE UNION said that if an employer fires foremen for belonging to the union, picket lines will be established at other maritime concerns and ports.

The new statute imposed restrictions on the activities of unions representing 15,000,000 workers.

Mr. Truman let the occasion pass without comment, telling his news conference that he said all he could in denouncing the measure as unworkable while it was before congress.

RED GENERAL PROMISES PROBE OF ABDUCTION

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 22—The Russian commander in north Korea notified American headquarters in Seoul today that an "investigation" was being made of three United States soldiers held incommunicado in the Soviet occupation zone for the last ten days.

Lt. Gen. C. P. Korotkov, Red army chief in the north Korean area, sent word that as soon as the inquiry is completed "a report will be submitted."

The message was received in Seoul by the intelligence unit of the U. S. Army troops occupying the southern half of Korea.

It was the first official word from the Russians on the incident since the soldiers were seized by the Soviets Aug. 12 after they inadvertently stepped over the 38th parallel which divides the two occupation zones.

Thus far, Korotkov has ignored two strong protest notes dispatched to him by the American occupation commander, Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, who demanded immediate release of the soldiers and an explanation for their abduction.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 — The old, time-honored remark that the weather is getting warmer every year was roundly denounced today by the U. S. weather bureau which blames the misconception on "human nature."

G. C. Bristow, a bureau climatic expert, declared that the weather is "just about the same as it always has been" and said the whole thing stems from "childhood memories."

Bristow explained that a child pays more attention to weather and particularly notes exceptionally cold winters and devastating storms.

BILBO'S BODY LIES IN STATE

Speculation On Successor Begins While Funeral Is Being Planned

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22—The body of Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo was moved at noon today from New Orleans to his "dream house" at Poplarville, Miss., where it will lie in state.

No services were planned in New Orleans where the 69-year-old unseated Democratic senator died in Foundation hospital.

Last rites for the stormy champion of white supremacy were planned amid widespread speculation as to his successor.

SOME POLITICAL observers believed that Governor Fielding H. Wright of Mississippi might appoint A. B. Friend, Bilbo's campaign manager and personal confidant, for the interim term.

Others predicted that Wright might name himself.

The Governor had no comment.

Mississippi attorney general Greek L. Rice said the law does not require appointment of a successor since congress is not in session.

If the post is temporarily left vacant, a successor would be chosen at a special election held in conjunction with the 1948 general election.

THE FILIBUSTERING senator died at 2:05 p. m. yesterday. (Continued on Page Two)

'MISS FRANKLINTON' IS QUEEN OF CELEBRATION

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22—Dark-haired 18-year-old Shirley Kietzman reigned as "Miss Franklinton of 1947" in Columbus today as the sesquicentennial celebration of the city's founding got underway.

Ceremonies today were to include the presentation of a memorial plaque to the city. It will mark the site of the old village of Franklinton.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22—The parents of blonde, curly-haired Jeanette Peterson, 20-month-old baby who disappeared from her home Wednesday, today offered immunity to her kidnappers if the girl is returned unharmed.

Meanwhile, residents of the village of Waldo, near where the Petersons live, posted a reward for the child's return. The collection among residents had reached $250 and was expected to total more as contributions continued.

Charles Peterson, father of the child, declared that the kidnaper or kidnappers "are as free as the wind if they bring that baby back. I will press no charges."

Meanwhile, hope waned for the immediate return of the child.

The blast smashed the south side of the span as if a stick of bombs had been dropped on it. Electric light poles were bent in two, steel beams were twisted, trolley wires knocked down, and the concrete sections over three arches were dumped into the water. Hundreds of bricks were blasted more than 100 feet into the air and scattered all over the bridge flooring.

ABOUT THREE hundred feet near the west end of the structure was ripped apart. Damage (Continued on Page Two)

AUSTRALIA ASKS STUDY OF VETO

Surprise Move Puts Issue On Agenda Of UN; New Members Also Up

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 22—Australia in a surprise move at the United Nations today placed the question of the Big Five veto and of the admission of new members on the agenda of the general assembly.

W. R. Hodgson, Australian delegate to Lake Success, beat today's eleven o'clock deadline on listing assembly items by formally delivering a lettered request from his government to Secretary-General Trygve Lie.

The Australian request also asks that the assembly consider the greater activation and use by U. N. of the international court of justice.

Hodgson's letter came on the heels of the eight consecutive vetoes wielded by the Soviet Union in the security council within four weeks, running the total over one year up to 18.

The letter specifies that while some of the items already may be on the assembly list, the Australian government desires that the listing should be made "with greater certainty."

The inclusion of the membership question again raises the prospects of the vetoed states such as Austria and Italy for U. N. entry before the end of the year, since the Australians and the United States are determined to spearhead a drive for some sort of action by the assembly opening the door to "deserving" countries.

Scioto River Probed For Possible Victims After Lightning Rips Bridge

BULLETIN COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22 — Miss Marion Johnson, 51, died in Mt. Carmel hospital today of injuries suffered when a lightning bolt struck the West Broad street bridge over the Scioto river in downtown Columbus Thursday evening.

Grappling and wrecking operations were resumed today at the main bridge over the Scioto river in downtown Columbus in an effort to find the bodies of possible additional victims of a lightning bolt which struck the span at the end of the evening rush hour yesterday.

Rescuers recovered four persons, all from Columbus, who had been hurled off the span into the stream. One of them, Miss Marion Johnson, 51, was in very critical condition. She received blast injuries, internal hemorrhages and shock.

The other three were reported in fair condition today. They were identified as Armitt Spohn, 30, Miss Irene Murphy, 24, and Janet Klinkert, 36. The four victims were employees of the veterans administration.

THE APPARENT lack of heavy casualties was attributed to a near cloudburst which kept office workers and others inside buildings. The downpour started about a half hour before the accident and water was running curb-high in the gutters.

A severe electrical storm had tied up electrical surface transportation and the rain had cut down the heavy stream of traffic. Virtually no pedestrians were on the streets.

The downpour started to let up shortly before the bridge was hit by the lightning which caused downtown office buildings to shake as if an earthquake had occurred.

City and Franklin county employees brought a crane into play to move massive slabs of reinforced concrete in their search for additional victims. The sections of the bridge which had been tossed into the

SHERIFF SAYS LIGHTNING BLAST WAS 'TERRIFIC'

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff, and Talmer Wise, 146 East Franklin street, were in Columbus city hall when lightning ripped two spans of the West Broad street bridge Thursday.

Sheriff Radcliff heard the crack of the lightning and stated that it was terrific, but returned to Circleville without knowing the extent of damage. He stated that it sounded like it had hit at Broad and High. City hall is only a short distance northeast of the blasted bridge.

FIFTH POLIO CASE

CHILLICOTHE, O., Aug. 22—Ross county reported its fifth infantile paralysis case of the year today. Floyd Everett Brown, 29, Chillicothe, acquired the disease and was admitted to Children's hospital in Columbus.

HOT WEEKEND FORECAST AGAIN BY WEATHERMAN

Heavy Rains Cause Damage To Pickaway Crops; High Of 95 Recorded

Only slight relief from the extended heat wave resulted following an electrical and rain storm which hit Circleville and vicinity Thursday.

No general relief was indicated by weather forecasters who warned that another hot weekend could be expected.

A high mark of 95 was recorded in Circleville Thursday before rain cooled the air and gave some residents their first night of rest for some time. But the official mercury dipped only to 68 degrees during the night and started climbing again Friday morning. By noon unofficial readings in the mid-eighties were reported in downtown Circleville.

A NEAR CLOUDBURST hit Ashville and vicinity. Roads in the area were covered with water and Friday morning most fields still had water standing in them. Considerable damage to corn was reported, especially in fields which have slopes.

County Engineer Henry McCrady said two trees were down on the Florence Chapel road near Fox and were removed by county workmen.

Damage resulting from the thunderstorm Thursday evening was slight in Circleville.

Clarence W. Helvering, city service director, said he had received no complaints of damage from overflowing storm sewers or of any other property damage.

Darby township in the area around Darby received plenty of rain, Dewey Downs, vice-chairman of the AAA office said, reporting that the streams were bank-full Thursday night, with water laying in the fields.

THE 15TH AUGUST day with the mercury zooming to 90 degrees or higher was in the making today as the weather bureau predicted that the heat wave will continue unabated through Sunday.

FOUR INJURED IN COLLISION ON 3-C HIGHWAY

Four persons were hurt in a collision on the 3-C highway near Harrisburg in Pickaway county during a heavy rain storm Thursday night.

Highway patrolmen reported an automobile, driven by Robert C. Parrett, Washington C. H. funeral director, overturned after crashing into the side of a dump truck, operated by John Cacchio, 26, Columbus.

Injured were Glenn Owens, 41, Washington C. H., chief delegate from the Washington lodge to the Moose convention, who suffered a dislocated right hip and body cuts; Jacob Weiser, 57, secretary of the Washington C. H. Moose lodge, back injuries; Parrett, minor cuts and bruises; Cacchio, bruises. All were treated at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, and discharged.

Parrett, charged with reckless driving by State Patrolman J. E. Mansberger, was fined $25 and costs by Justice H. O. Eveland here.

TRUCKING COMPANY SUED FOR $20,000 DAMAGES

David M. Lanning, administrator of the estate of Donald Evan Lanning filed suit Thursday against the E. and L. Transport company, Dearborn, Michigan, asking for $20,000.

The plaintiff alleges that through the negligent operation of one of the company's truck drivers on May 7, 1947 on Route 23 injuries were caused which resulted in the death of Donald Lanning, 13. David Lanning is the father of the deceased.

brief periods and in widely-scattered places as the moisture-saturated atmosphere let loose with thundershowers and destructive electrical storms.

A downpour of 2.13 inches hit Columbus last night and at the same time the capital city's main bridge over the Scioto river was hit asunder by a terrific bolt of lightning.

Four persons were hurled into the river as part of the structure virtually was disintegrated by the atomic-like flash. Rescue workers were continuing their search for other possible victims.

MEANWHILE, the states of Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Montana and the Dakotas continued to bake in the mass of stagnant, hot air that refused to move along and allow itself to be displaced by cooler air from northern Canada.

The nation's corn belt was in the midst of the burning heat and estimates of the crop total were diminishing each and every day the heat and drought continues.

Many of Ohio's farm areas have been more fortunate as thundershowers quenched the thirst of the field crops. More afternoon and evening thundershowers were forecast by Weatherman Milton Davis to bring additional relief in some areas.

HEAT PROSTRATIONS and factory layoffs were on the increase. Cincinnati reported another heat wave death and some drownings were adding to the uncounted toll building up since the mercury first hit into the 90's on Aug. 3.

Cleveland and other Ohio cities were marking up the seventh consecutive day of 90-plus temperatures, the longest period of high readings since the record nine days of July, 1941, when the mercury reached an all-time high of 103 degrees.

The sixth city yesterday again topped the state with a high of 96 degrees and a similar reading was predicted for today. High temperatures elsewhere in the state were to be comparable.

Across the nation, the mercury boiled to 105 degrees at Pierre, S. D., and Bismarck, N. D. It was 94 at Chicago and in the high 90's in most of the heat-affected areas.

HIGH AND LOW temperatures and rainfall amounts in inches, respectively, at various points for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today were:

Akron 91-71; Chesapeake 94-71, .01; Cincinnati 93-71, .03; Cleveland 96-70, .02; Columbus 92-68, 2.13; Dayton 91-71; East Liverpool 87-69, .52; Findlay 93-71, .74; Hayesville 90-70; Parkersburg, W. Va., 90-68, 1.93; Perry 88-72, .01; Toledo 92-70; Wilmington 90-69; Youngstown 92-69, .21, and Zanesville 93-67, .13.

Four and a half hours after the lightning hit, traffic was allowed to cross on the north portion of the span.

Franklin county engineer Allen Slade and city engineer Paul W. Maetzel declared that all seven arches and the main supports were undamaged.

Only one car was believed to have been on the bridge at the time of the accident. Witnesses said they had seen it drive off after the lightning flash.

FIREFIGHTER KILLED

CHILLICOTHE, O., Aug. 22—An attempt to put out a fire in a tree caused the death last night of Edward Dickey, 32, Chillicothe's assistant service director, when he touched a broken 2,200-volt power line. Dickey and Edward Dalton, an employee of the Chillicothe Country Club, were using buckets of water on the blaze on the club grounds when the accident occurred.

TWO HURT IN BLAST

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 22—Two men were reported injured today when an explosion wrecked a locker room of detective headquarters in Philadelphia's city hall. Assistant superintendent of police Guy Parson's office said no "official" statement as to the cause of the blast would be made until the debris was thoroughly sifted.

HUNT FATHER, SON

BEDFORD, Mass., Aug. 22—Police from Bedford, Mass., to Columbus, Ohio, were alerted today to be on the lookout for David Richard Seigle, formerly of Columbus, who disappeared last night with his year-old son, while his wife was attending a motion picture in Maynard.

suddenly that the victims themselves did not realize what hit them. Spohn, who had been talking with Miss Klinkert, said:

"All I remember is being tossed high in the air. I must have gone up 50 feet. I could see huge blocks of cement flying in the air around me. Then I hit the water."

Miss Klinkert said she remembered "an awful crash" and "the next thing I knew I was thrown into the air."

None of the victims could recall whether there was anyone else on the bridge at the time of the blast.

Miss Thelma Turner, Columbus, who was riding in an automobile approaching the span from the West said, "It seemed as though the lightning hit every one of those posts along the south side of the bridge. The air got black as all that stuff went flying through the air."

Thomas O. Penn, 20, a former coast guardsman and also a VA employee, said he was pushing his car out of the VA parking lot a block from the span when the bolt struck. He ran down to the river, stripped off his shirt and shoes, jumped in and pulled out two of the victims.

Others who assisted Penn and the fire department rescue squad were Myrle McMullen and Leo Canfield, who also pulled out a victim. Two firemen were treated for rope burns on their hands received when they slid from the top of the bridge to the water.

MOOSE ADOPT RESOLUTION BARRING 'RED' MEMBERS

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22—The world convention of the Loyal Order of Moose today had voted to bar membership to any person in sympathy with movements to overthrow government by force.

The 25,000 delegates were homeward bound today after the five blistering-hot days of their meeting. Chicago was chosen as the 1948 world convention city.

U. S. Army General Blames Reds For Plot In American Zone

SEOUL (Korea), Aug. 22—America's top commander in South Korea announced today that a planned revolution, inspired in part by "direction" from Russian-held North Korea, has been smashed in the United States occupation zone with the arrest of 100 Koreans.

Starting signal for the uprising, it was stated, was to have been the blowing up of the American-controlled Seoul radio station.

Disclosure of the abortive conspiracy was made immediately after a Russian spokesman in Seoul charged that "this tense moment" had been chosen for what he termed "mass arrests" of leftist leaders and "pogroms" against radical papers in the American occupation zone.

The Americans, in turn, accused the Soviet delegation to the joint U. S.-Russian commission on Korea of "attempting to interfere in the conduct of the government of South Korea."

BURSTING INTO the open, the controversy over the arrest of the alleged Korean terrorists added to tension already generated by the seizure in Soviet-held North Korea of three American soldiers who have been held by the Russians for the last ten days.

The suppression of what he called a "widespread" insurrectionary plot was revealed by Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge who charged that some of the arrested persons belonged to groups acting under "directions from North Korea."

Hodge, commander of the U. S. occupation forces in the southern half of the country, declared:

"A plan to blow up the radio station in Seoul on August 12th was the beginning of a plan of disorders."

"Documentary evidence showed a widespread plan of a revolutionary nature."

"The South Korea government decided it was time to pick up the offenders as their activities were getting out of hand."

Hodge, replying to the Soviet charge of "pogroms" against Korean leftists, told newsmen 100 suspects were being held and added:

"There is no political significance in these arrests. The persons apprehended ran afoul of the law. The arrested persons include rightists and leftists."

APPRAISAL ASKED

REAL ESTATE MEN READY TO FIGHT CHARGES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—The National Association of Real Estate Boards prepared today to defend itself in the event a grand jury investigation of Washington realtors widens into a justice department probe of the national "real estate lobby" recently denounced by President Truman.

Herbert U. Nelson, executive secretary of the association flew to Washington from California and met in closed session with officials of the national and District of Columbia boards.

Nelson announced later that the group had decided to "present a common defense" and had retained Henry Price, Washington attorney, as counsel. The real estate association leader declared:

"The grand jury investigation of Washington real estate practices seems to be cloaked in mystery. None of us is quite sure what it's all about, or what the justice department hopes to develop."

"However, we're going to be ready to protect ourselves—just in case."

EXPERT DENIES WEATHER STORY

freezing temperatures of Russia and northern Europe.

THE SHIRT-SLEEVED expert, sweltering in Washington's 90 degree heat, talked of possible changes in climate should the icy glaciers of the north and south poles continue melting to the point of disintegration.

Bristow said that if the glaciers disappeared the weather to the north would be "much milder" and would open the land to possible agricultural development.

Tropical areas, however, would not be affected since the climate there is "as warm as it will ever get." He said northern temperatures never change tropical weather.

But the chances of complete disappearance of the glaciers seem remote. Bristow said that "ice ages have recurred in history" and more than likely glaciers now melting will begin to enlarge sooner or later.

But if the unexpected happens, there's no need to worry, it'll take several thousand years to melt the ice mountains.

SENATOR SEES NEW DUST BOWL THREAT IN WEST

Solons Forecast Continued Price Support Program For Farmers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Sen. Young (R) N. D., declared today that a new "dust-bowl" threat is shaping up in western states from the Canadian line down into Texas.

At the same time, Young and Sen. Sparkman (D) Ala., both forecast in interviews that congress will continue price support, coupled with voluntary production controls and soil conservation as a long-range program.

The present price support program expires Dec. 31, 1948.

Young attributed what he termed the "dust-bowl" dangers to heavy wartime and postwar food production, with less emphasis on conservation, and with huge tracts of prairie grasslands plowed up for tilled crops. He said:

"If it were not for soil conservation practices of the past we would be in worse shape than we were prior to the dust-bowl years of 1934 and 1936."

THE NORTH Dakota Republican supported the agricultural aid program that grew out of Henry Wallace's plan of the early new deal era. He said:

"There definitely will have to be support of prices—though probably not on the same basic levels as now."

"Farmers have been asked to boost production in the war years. They now are recalling the disaster that followed World War I. They are beginning to talk about cutting production."

YOUNG AND Sparkman both said that production controls and soil conservation must be tied in with price support. Sparkman said:

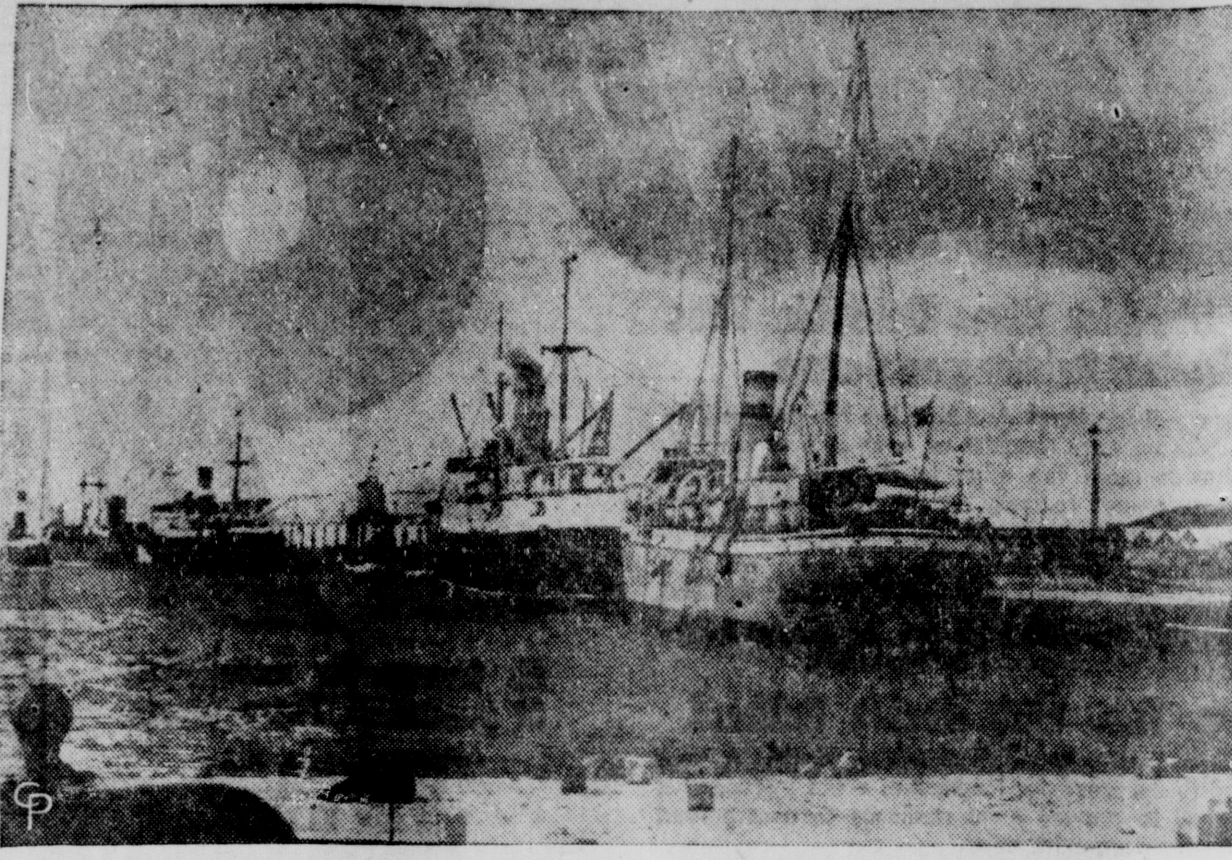

"I don't see any alternative. We will have to have a support program, and the only way to carry it out is to have also a self-imposed production control program."

"I think we have the best program we ever had, combining price support, acreage controls and soil conservation."

Both said they opposed the "economy of scarcity," which was involved in the early Wallace plan, and which brought re-sounding protests over "killing the little pigs."

They said also that they believed congress would discard any proposals to subsidize the sale of surpluses abroad on grounds that it would collide with the nation's reciprocal trade program.

UNION CHURCH SERVICES END SUNDAY NIGHT

'Rehabilitation' To Be Topic
Of Rev. Wilson At
Ted Lewis Park

Concluding session of the Summer union church services at Ted Lewis Park shelter house will be held Sunday evening, August 24 at 7:30 o'clock. For eight weeks these vesper services have been co-sponsored by the Circleville Ministerial Association and the Circleville Kiwanis Club with ministers from Circleville and Pickaway county participating through presiding and delivering the sermons.

Sunday evening the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church and president of the Pickaway county and Circleville Ministerial Association, will deliver the sermon. His topic, "Rehabilitation," will be developed from two scriptural directives, Nehemiah 2:20 and Ephesians 2:19-22.

In arranging the order of service, the Rev. Mr. Wilson secured the service of Charles Kirkpatrick as song leader and Miss Lucille Kirkwood as pianist. He has also secured the services of Mr. and Mrs. Orla Bradford, evangelistic musicians, from Westerville. The Bradfords are well known in Pickaway county and Circleville for their work in various churches. They furnish instrumental and vocal numbers of special music. The feature of their presentation is through the combination of the artist and the musician. Mr. Bradford is an accomplished chalk artist while his wife supplements his drawing by appropriate vocal and piano numbers. The Bradfords have chosen "Jesus of Galilee," as the Sunday evening musical drawing sermonette.

Ushers from the First church, under the direction of Roy Groce, will serve in their respective capacity.

The following order of service has been announced: prelude, call to worship, Gloria Patri, invocation, hymn, meditation and devotions, hymn, offertory, doxology, prayer, sermon, benediction, postlude.

Since this is the last service of the 1947 series, it is the hope of the co-sponsors that a large congregation will attend Sunday evening.

REPEATER FLASH FOR CAMERAS DISPLAYED HERE

A new piece of flash photographic equipment, the first of its kind to be seen in Circleville, is being demonstrated by Harry Isaacs, proprietor of the Mayfair Studios.

The new "gadget" is called "Everflash" and uses instead of the usual replaceable flash bulb a repeating flash tube which can be used 10,000 times before replacement. It resembles a radio tube and is filled with xenon gas, a rare inactive chemical element. It is flashed by means of condensing mechanisms powered by a small portable wet cell.

A special feature of the bulb, in addition to its long life, is the speed of the flash which occurs in 1-10,000 of a second—10 to 20 times faster than any camera shutters in practical use. Synchronization is accomplished by timing the flash to occur between the opening and closing of the shutter. For focal plane shutters, open, flash, close, technique must be used because of the speed of the flash.

This speed enables the photographer to "stop-action" moving subjects. The flash is a bluish-white color which makes it ideal for color photography without correction.

A PEACE DEPARTMENT

R. M. DAVIS, a Morgantown, W. Va., coal operator, wants to see street-level straight-from-the-shoulder diplomacy developed, and a peace department to operate along with the war department in the United States cabinet. Since 1942 he has crusaded for peace through speeches, books he has written, radio addresses, scholarships in international relations in two American colleges and prizes for high school peace essays.

Mr. Davis believes American diplomats should be able to speak the language of the country where they serve in order that they may pick up the feelings of the average citizens of foreign countries, and transmit those attitudes accurately to the American people. His idea of a peace department got as far as having a bill for it introduced in the House. It did not come to a vote before the adjournment of the 80th Congress.

But Mr. Davis is not discouraged. A good many Americans, especially those whose young men died on foreign battle fields, will agree with what he said recently to President Truman: "We have had two world wars in 25 years. There is something wrong with the set-up. We must do something to correct it."

CAPITALIST VENTURE

CAPTAIN BILL ODOM, in an interview in Washington after his return from his 73-hour world-girdling flight, said that he did not believe that the Russians had a plane which could be used in duplicating his performance. He also remarked that they don't have a Milton Reynolds, either.

He had something there. In a totalitarian regime, everybody's time and energy are used to the fullest extent in producing little more than the essentials of life. The Russians might, in time, produce such a plane as the one used by Odom, but they are making every effort not to produce an industrialist like Reynolds who can afford to finance a world flight, not only once, but three times.

The two flights previously sponsored and another projected for the future are, of course, advertising on a large scale. They are also adventures which test the capacity of the plane and the ability of the pilot, besides providing other valuable information, at enormous cost to a private individual. This sort of magnificent gesture is impossible to a Russian citizen.

MICE AND MEN

"ARE YOU a man or a mouse?" This question, which angry wives sometimes ask their husbands, is based on the idea that it is better to be a man. This is not always the case. In Bar Harbor, Me., a memorial laboratory for cancer research will build a three-story apartment to house 150,000 mice. Apartment space for 150,000 humans would really make a dent in the housing situation in most communities.

Senate War Probe Hearings | War Contracts Settlements
Must Maintain Dignity Or— | To Be Investigated Next

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Republicans on the Senate war investigating committee intend to see that the next hearings strike a note of dignity.

The flamboyant, circus-like Hughes hearings got entirely out of hand. They produced a unique protest by a Democratic member of the committee, Senator Claude Pepper (D), Florida, against the way in which the GOP subcommittee, Senator Homer Ferguson (R), Michigan, was conducting the proceedings.

The Hughes hearings evoked general criticism from Democrats, and in the viewpoint of observers, endangered the chances of the committee's being renewed beyond its expiration date of Jan. 31.

Republicans want to get the committee continued so that it can function in the 1948 presidential election year. They admit privately that their only hope of getting a new lease on life is to have the hearings conducted henceforth on a "high and dignified" plane.

Thus, they are ready to pounce on and kill the first evidence of flamboyance in the next case, which is scheduled to be the waste of unknown millions of dollars in settlement of war contracts.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA

By Kenneth L. Dixon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—It was more than 20 years ago that Dad took the old Stevens single-shot .22 rifle down off the wall and brought it outside where mother stood watching the proceedings with misgivings and Jack, our nondescript hunting dog, wagged his tail in an ecstasy of expectation.

"It will be all right," Dad reassured mother. "He's old enough to go hunting alone." Then he handed me the gun.

"Just don't forget," he said, "that this thing will kill boys and dogs as well as rabbits. It's your responsibility to know what's in front of the sights before you pull the trigger."

I didn't get any rabbits that first hunting trip, but I didn't shoot any boys or dogs, either. And sometimes, I wish that a few guys like Dad were around today to sound the same quiet warning about deadly weapons to a few government officials.

For this new full-scale federal loyalty investigation is a rifle of higher caliber than this country ever before has found it necessary to use in peacetime.

"They're using it to hunt Communists, and others of doubtful patriotism who may be in government employ—and few people would question that such a weapon, properly handled, is badly needed today."

But, like the old .22 single-shot, it's going to hit whatever's in front of its sights when the trigger is pulled, and unless it's mighty carefully aimed, a lot of innocent and perfectly loyal people are going to get shot by mistake—or scared to death.

Already, they're frightened at the prospect.

Here in Washington, they're now fingerprinting the first of some two million federal workers across the country who will be given the loyalty test before the project is finished. And already, the effect on those workers is a thought-provoking development.

Ask them if they think the loyalty probe is a good thing. Inevitably, they counter the question by asking if you're going to use their names. If you say you are, their answers are wooden and almost identical.

"Yes," they say, "it's a good thing because we certainly shouldn't have any disloyal people in the government." Some of them add, "it's perfectly all right with me. I don't have anything to hide."

But assure them that you won't use their names, and the answers are entirely different. For instance:

"How can you prove a man's loyalty?"

"Who's going to be the judge?"

"What's to keep the real Commies from lying?"

"What constitutes loyalty?" Will I get fired if I go to hear Henry Wallace talk, just out of curiosity?"

"What if I disagree with my boss? Is that disloyalty? Can he go to the board and get me fired?"

And so on. The frightening point is that already these people feel they dare not criticize the probe—an act of their own government—for fear of being declared disloyal. Thus simply can hard-won freedom of speech be flung away.

New Weapons Against Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

WE stand today at the threshold of the atomic age; and many of us stand there in fear and trembling. We are aware of the destructive power unleashed by science in the splitting of the atom, but forget that the same forces may also be used as powerful weapons against disease.

Even before the actual splitting of the atom, early experiments had given us certain radioactive elements which could be used in the treatment of various ailments. We can get some idea of what the future may hold by a look at past experience with one of the first of the elements to be rendered radioactive—phosphorus. Radioactive phosphorus has been employed in the treatment of various disorders over a period of ten years and a great deal has been learned concerning its use.

Study of Patients

Dr. Edward Reinhard of St. Louis, Missouri, and his co-workers, have been able to study almost 300 patients in whom the radioactive phosphorus was employed.

The preparation may be administered either by injection into a vein or by mouth. However, by mouth larger doses are necessary.

The best results with radioactive phosphorus have been obtained in a disorder known as polycythemia in which there is an increase in the number of red cells in the blood. This condition causes such symptoms as shortness of breath, and loss of weight and strength.

In carrying out the treatment, the radioactive phosphorus is administered for a few days and then no more is given for three months. In another three months, if the condition still persists, a second course of the drug is administered, and some patients need even a third course three months later. From then on, no further treatment is given unless a relapse develops.

Relieves the Symptoms

Another disorder in which the radioactive phosphorus is employed is one known as chronic myelogenous leukemia. In this disorder, the radioactive phosphorus greatly relieves the symptoms, lessening the size of the spleen, which is located in the left upper part of the abdomen, and seems to relieve the anemia which is present in this condition, that is, the lessening of the number of red cells in the blood.

In myelogenous leukemia, there is an increase in the number of white cells in the blood, particularly the type known as myelocytes. With the radioactive phosphorus treatment, the number of these cells in the blood was greatly reduced. Several patients have been relieved of their symptoms for a period of a year or more.

Less Satisfactory Results

In lymphatic leukemia, a disorder in which there is also a great increase in the white cells of the blood, treatment with the radioactive phosphorus gives less satisfactory results. Improvement for short periods of time, however, are brought about. It would appear that in this latter disorder, X-ray treatment may be of greater help than the use of the radioactive phosphorus.

Radioactive phosphorus is rather scarce at present, but gradually more and more will be made available and with it will come other radioactive materials which may give medical science the means of conquering what are now regarded as mysterious and fatal diseases.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

J. W. G.: Will you please tell me something about varicose veins?

Answer: A varicose vein is one which has become dilated or enlarged. It is caused by obstruction to the circulation, such as is due to pregnancy, or because of inactive living.

The use of exercise and massage, and the wearing of an elastic bandage are helpful in relieving and preventing varicose veins. Sometimes these veins are removed by operation.

Recently, varicose veins have been treated by means of injection.

PEGGY DERN

CHAPTER ONE

GAIL PRENTICE lay face down on the gleaming white sand, the hot February sun beaming down on her carefully oiled back and legs. The sun's rays were scarcely impeded by a bathing suit that consisted of brief white shorts and a bandeau knotted in front. She was already tanned to a delicious golden hue that enhanced the smooth shining gold of her hair and the sapphire blue of her eyes.

Florida was at her most perfect on this early February day. The ocean gleamed behind Gail, a brilliant, incredible turquoise blue broken by the long, creamy breakers racing inward to expire on the beach with a soft hissing sound. But as she lay now with her face on her crossed arms, she wasn't thinking of the beauty of the scene about her. Her thoughts were not of happy ones and her soft mouth had an undeniable droop at the corners. It wasn't much fun being a "professional house guest," with never enough money to have a place of one's own, no matter how tiny; never enough money to pay bills, to buy clothes.

There were times when Gail and her mother had to do some inspired figuring in order to achieve enough for the necessary tips before leaving one house party to join another. One had to tip the servants, Lissa always explained, because servants were such snobs and could make things very unpleasant for one on one's return visit. And it was desperately necessary that one be able to make a return visit.

Of course, Gail reminded herself sadly, everyone was glad to have Lissa as a house guest. Lissa was beautiful and gay and always made a party go! But despite her own popularity, Gail knew herself to be a misfit in this sort of life and that she made things a bit more difficult for Lissa. Which hurt, because she adored her mother and wanted her to have an easy time. But when she suggested that now she was nearly twenty there was really no reason why she should not get a job, Lissa had been horrified at the very idea.

"Good heavens, Gail, do you want to ruin me socially?" she had gasped. "Aren't things difficult enough now, with the miserly allowances your father left me being swallowed up before we can even get our hands on it?"

"But if I got a job—" Gail had pleaded.

"You'd have to have a place to live. You couldn't commute from house party to house party to a silly little job, and it would cost more than you could earn to have the very tiniest, shabbiest sort of place. And besides, what would people think if you took a job?"

They'd think we were penniless. They'd stop inviting me. Oh, Gail, dear, I do wish you wouldn't have such fantastic ideas. You give me a headache, really you do." And so Gail had apologized and the subject had been dropped, and they had gone on to the Cramerton's house party on Long Island, where they had prolonged their stay despite Martha Cramerton's tight-lipped disapproval, until it was time for them to go up to Maine to stay with the Gordons.

Gail stirred restlessly and sat up, drawing her knees up and circling them with her arms. She looked out at the blue waters with that strange look of longing and yearning that she could take life in her stride as Lissa did. Lissa had toughened herself so that she could ignore slights and snubs as though they did not exist; she could prolong a week-end engagement into an extra two or three days so that another invitation caught up with them, and not mind a bit that she was upsetting the household.

Though Lissa was very careful not to do this if it could be avoided, for it was dangerous to wear out one's welcome and risk not receiving another invitation.

Gail got up at last, swung the toweling robe about her shoulders, and started back to the house that loomed, vast and cream-colored, along the dune behind her. It was almost cocktail time, and she didn't want to draw attention to herself by being late. She was always meticulously courteous, almost placating, as though in tacit apology to any long-suffering hostess who might be annoyed with Lissa.

She reached her room without encountering anyone but the servants. She had showered and begun to dress when there was a knock at the door, and without waiting for permission, Lissa came in.

Lissa was so beautiful that Gail never failed to thrill at sight of her. Lissa was 33, but not even her bitterest enemy would have guessed her age at more than 30, and under soft shaded lights she could look even younger. Still with the exquisitely molded figure of girlhood, her hair a ripe golden-wheat color, her eyes deeply blue and long-lashed, her skin pearly perfect, she was enchanting to others besides her young daughter.

"Not mooning, precious, surely? Time you were getting dressed," said Lissa, and kissed her lightly. "You can miss cocktails if you like—the cocktail hour is a bit of a bore here. How in the world Lucia could ever get herself saddled with such a dull house party! But then, poor sweet, she was always the world's worst hostess! Simply brings together the most impossible people."

Lissa was already dressed for dinner in a superbly simple white dinner gown cut so perfectly that it had no need of any decoration except the narrow golden belt that encircled her slender waist and the flower of golden sequins embroidered on one shoulder.

She sat down gracefully. Lissa never flopped or dropped down or did anything without an exquisite grace that made, watching her a pleasure. She lit a cigaret and said quietly, "Angel child, we've got to have a serious talk."

Gail caught her breath, panic in her eyes.

"You mean—Cecile, Inc., is going to sue?" she whispered, pallid. Lissa's lovely airy brows rose a little and there was amusement in her deep blue eyes.

"Good heavens, puz, whatever gave you that fantastic idea?" she exclaimed.

"Well, it IS an enormous bill, Lissa, and their last letter threatened suit." Gail felt awkward and embarrassed by her mother's amusement.

Lissa made a little deprecatory gesture.

"Oh, I went in to see Paul," she said carelessly, "and took him a couple of new customers—filthy rich, but with no social pretensions whatever. Sometimes when I look at the people who have money nowadays, it makes me wonder. So absurd, really, for some people to have so much money and not to know what to do with it. But when I presented Paul with the oh-so-rich and oh-so-naive Mrs. Justin and her owl-eyed daughter, and he saw what the pickles were going to be, he agreed to wait indefinitely for his money. Paul has made Cecile's quite a decent sort of place."

Gail winked fast, because there were tears of relief in her eyes and she knew Lissa would think that very amusing.

"I'm terribly glad," she said unsteadily.

Lissa looked at her daughter curiously for a moment, and suddenly there was compunction in her eyes.

"Poor lamb, this is all a bit trying for you, isn't it?" she said gently. "Cading invitations; playing a superlative game of bridge because we simply dare not lose; enduring petty humiliations because we simply must have clothes. You hate it, don't you, lamb?"

Gail hesitated, and then she said unsteadily, "We-e-e, it's a bit nerve wracking, isn't it?"

Lissa laughed. "Not a bit of it. It's a challenge. But since you feel the way you do, you'll be glad to hear the news I've brought you."

Lissa was smiling, but with a light in her eyes that was ever so faintly wary.

"If it's good—" said Gail and beamed happily at her lovely mother.

"But, darling, it's terribly good!" purred Lissa. "Angel, how would you like to spend the summer with your father at the plantation?"

For a moment Gail sat perfectly still, staring at her mother with incredulous eyes, too stunned for speech.

STARSSAY—

For Friday, August 22

ACCORDING to the lunar aspects, this is a day on which the more prosaic and workaday activities might be set aside for the more romantic an alluring joys and engagements pertaining to the personal life and its aspirations. Domestic, social, cultural—with particular stress on romantic, affectional and home or public celebrations or "parties"—are all right, provided there is no show of extravagance or over-indulgence in any phase of outlay.

The judgment may be foggy or indecisive and a tendency to inertia or "loafing" might not be amiss, as relaxation and diversion benefit.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to enjoy a period of rest, diversion, relaxation or "the pursuit of happiness" rather than tackling disagreeable, onerous or unwelcome tasks in the line of duty, obligation or everyday performances. These may irk at the point of the static and crystallized, and may not be spurred into lucrative activities under a clouded or disinterested mind. Festivity, celebrations, vacations, would prove of benefit, and probably avert loss and unprofitable labors.

A child born on this day may have its interests centered on the pursuit of happiness, with romance and domestic ties to the fore, as a natural inertia might but neutralize its progress.

YOU'RE TELLING ME!

FOR THE first time in his life we have felt a twinge of sympathy for Emperor Hirohito of Japan. This was when we read he had taken his missus to a baseball game.

Mrs. Hi, in the best tradition of "little women," no doubt doesn't know the difference between a shin guard and a sacrifice fly.

We can see the emperor perspiring freely as he tries to explain it isn't discrimination that that little bat boy isn't allowed to play.

Then, of course, there must have been the moment when his nibs had to answer why he beautifully long hit ball didn't

"The Authority on Authorities"

HOW TO DRIVE HIM WILD

THERE ARE several ways to make an opponent gnash his teeth over having fallen for a gag that made him beat himself. One of the most exasperating is to lead a queen when the king is at your left. Its holder will usually play low if he lacks the ace, expecting the card to be opposite the leader. If he then plays low a second time, hoping the ace is now singleton and must play, he has succumbed to the device. When the leader of the suit then lays down the ace to drop the king that could have won earlier, it is likely to just about drive the victim wild.

There is no way we know to justify soundly either West's diamond overcall or South's last two bids on this duplicate deal except that he fancied his own playing ability and was straining for maximum results in the duplicate where this hand was produced. But several other pairs reached the same contract and still more played at a lower No Trump contract even if a careless fielder happened to get in the way and it landed in his hands.

And why is it necessary for ball players to dress up in knickerbockers like small boys when everyone knows they are old enough to vote?

And can't the visiting team afford to have their suits laundered? They look so tattle-tale grayish against the clean whites of the locals!

Yes, sir, there must have been times before the arrival of the blessed ninth inning and the final out when Hirohito men-tract. The number of tricks taken depended mainly on what the defense did. Some took nine tricks, some eight and one declarer even got 10 with four in spades, two in hearts, three in diamonds and one in clubs.

But the worst score for any North-South pair came where the bidding struggle was done. West led the K of East's hearts, then led to the A. Now East played South for a victim of his own nefariousness and got away with it. He led the club Q. South now placed the A with West, so played low to avoid sacrificing his K. West put on the 10. Then East led the 4. With the 3 not yet seen, South decided East had five to the Q-J-9 and West originally just the A-10. So he played low again. The J, of course, won that and the 3 came back to the A, which dropped the K. South was so mad, at both himself and East, that he could hardly play the rest of the hand as the 9 took another club trick to give him a cold bottom score.

WARM PEACH CAKE

By BETTY NEWTON

Those luscious peaches we dreamed about are on our markets again! The ways in which they can be served are many. For breakfast, sliced peaches over cereal served with top milk is a wonderful way to start a summer day. Peaches served on a fruit salad plate or in a molded salad make a delicious luncheon dish. In an appetizing fresh fruit cup or for dessert they are perfect for dinner.

With plenty of sugar available again, we can plan to serve delicious desserts like this and give our families the "sweet ending" they enjoy so much at any meal!

Peach Cake

1 C. flour
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt

1 egg
1/4 C. sugar
1/4 C. orange juice
1 tsp. grated orange rind
1/4 C. shortening
1 1/2 C. sliced peaches

Glaze

1/4 C. sugar
1 tsp. grated orange rind
1/4 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. water

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, and salt. Beat egg, add corn syrup, orange juice and rind. Mix with the dry ingredients. Stir in melted shortening. Spread in a greased shallow pan. Place sliced peaches on top of the batter. Mix the ingredients for the glaze and drizzle over the peaches. Bake at 350 degrees for about 55 minutes.

Mrs. Skaggs, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Mable Westenhaver, served a salad course as the guests were seated at the small card tables. Each place was marked by clever favors holding a miniature lighted candle.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Mary Stevens, Mrs. Ross Carothers, Nelson Stevens, Michael Carothers, Dale Wolf and Mary Lou Skaggs. Plans were made for the September 4th meeting to be held in the home of Mrs. Roger Lozier, West High street.

No leftover rolls should be given the go-by in these days of wheat conservation. They can be rejuvenated by being heated in a clean paper bag which has been prepared by pouring cold water in and out of it quickly. Be sure that the water is removed before it has time to soak through the bag. The leftover rolls are put in the dampened bag, the top is twisted and the bag put in a hot oven until the rolls are thoroughly heated.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little! It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your drugist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

CHAIN LETTERS CIRCULATED IN CENTRAL OHIO

'Get Rich Quick' Scheme
Now Uses $2 Instead
Of Depression Dime

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22.—The postwar version of the chain letter mania of depression days has finally hit central Ohio. Reports from Ohio State University campus indicated that the newest "get rich quick" scheme has taken a firm hold today on the Summer quarter students and has spread into government and private offices in downtown Columbus.

The originators of the new "chain letter" thoughtfully tried to circumvent the post-office department's ban on using the mails to distribute lotteries or the money for lotteries. Postal authorities won't admit it, but indications are that few are likely to be prosecuted although they are technically guilty of violating the law.

THE 1947 PLAN is an obvious postwar scheme because it is based on a two-dollar initial investment instead of the depression's dime or quarter. Some plans, however, ask only for a dollar to get into the "chain."

The major difference is that the actual lists of ten names are handed from one hopeful to another in person, instead of through the mails. Only the cash is mailed. Thus no names appear in the mails to open the participants to possible prosecution.

On the two-dollar scheme, the bait is an alleged potential return of $2,048 for a two-dollar investment. The first person "sells" a friend a list of ten names for the two bucks. The friend then mails two dollars in a plain envelope to the person whose name is first on the list. He makes two copies of the list, but omits the top name to which he has sent the two dollars and adds his own name and address at the bottom.

The next step in the process is to find two more friends eager to take a chance on accumulating a pile of cash without any effort and sell each of them one of the revised lists at two bucks a shot. Thus the buyer, who has now become a seller, gets back the two he paid for the list, plus the other two that he sent to the first name on the list.

AFTER THAT is done, all he has to do is sit back and wait for the crisp bills to come rolling in up to a total of 2,048—he hopes. Also he may have a little trouble keeping other "friends" and friends of friends from getting him to bite on still more of the propositions.

Postal authorities in Columbus maintain that they have not noticed any indication of the cash going through the mails, but they are emphatic in declaring that it is illegal. They say that they have heard "rumors" that the craze has spread into the area but add that they know nothing officially.

One official pointed out that it would be rather difficult to start prosecution against anyone if a plain envelope containing two dollars and nothing else is found in the mails. Postal authorities might be morally certain that the dough just might be connected with a lottery but prov-

DODGERS PASS MIRACLE; BEAT BLACKWELL 8-1

St. Louis Gets Even Break
Against Phillies; Drop
1st 9-2, Take 2nd 13-3

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 — An even-tempered race between St. Louis and Brooklyn down the National League stretch is assured today by announcement that "Country" Slaughter, injured Cardinal outfielder, will be out of the St. Louis lineup for only a few days.

When Slaughter collided with shortstop Bernie Creger at Philadelphia yesterday, it was feared at first that Slaughter might be lost for the season. But X-rays revealed no skull fracture or other serious injury.

Temporary loss of Slaughter's services balances Brooklyn's loss of Harry Taylor, star pitcher. In fact Taylor, who is going to Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore for examination of an injury to his pitching elbow, may be idle for much longer than Slaughter.

The Dodgers performed a minor miracle yesterday in skinning "Eel" Blackwell of Cincinnati, who had allowed the Brooks only one run in beating them three times previously this season. The Eel, seeking his 20th win, was nipped for four runs in the fifth inning and retired after the sixth.

Clyde King, a second-stringer, went the route for the Dodgers and won, 8 to 1, increasing Brooklyn's lead over St. Louis to five games.

ST. LOUIS got no better than an even break against the Phillies. Oscar Judd held them to five hits in the opener and beat them, 9 to 2.

In the nightcap the Red Birds went on a home run spree and drubbed the Phils, 13 to 3, with Stan Musial belting two homers, one a grand slam, and Don Northey getting one.

Boston's battering Braves, compiling a total of 31 hits, downed the Chicago Cubs twice, 8 to 2 and 6 to 4. The Braves now trail Brooklyn by 6½ games and St. Louis by only 1½, while the Cubs have lost seven straight.

Warren Spahn racked up his 16th win in the opener. The winning rally in the nightcap was started by a pinch single by pitcher Johnny Sain, who now has hit safely in 14 straight games.

Clint Hartung, the "Texas phenom" of the New York Giants, had a no-hitter going into the eighth inning against Pittsburgh under the arc lights. Then Jimmy Bloodworth, first Pittsburgh batter in the eighth, hit a single to right field.

The only other safe hit made off the "phenom" was a ninth-inning homer by Frankie Gustine which ruined a shutout for Clint. Hartung also helped himself to a homer in the fifth inning, which ended New York's scoring and gave him a handsome 4-to-1 triumph.

IN THE AMERICAN League, all games were night contests except the Washington-Detroit double-header, in which the Senators not only snapped an 11-game losing streak but also downed the Tigers twice, 3 to 2 and 5 to 3. Early Wynn held the Bengals to six hits and beat Hal Newhouser in the opener, and homers by Mickey Vernon and Cecil Travis gave the Nats the edge in the nightcap.

Philadelphia's improving Athletics moved into third place in the junior circuit, ahead of Detroit, when rookie Bill McCahan

DRAKE - TARLTON TOURNEY TILT DUE TONIGHT

Ted Lewis park softball diamond was still wet Friday morning but continued heat during the day was expected to dry it enough to permit a Night league tournament game to be played Friday night.

Thursday evening's Drake's Produce-Tarlton contest was rained out and the teams will play at 8 p. m. Friday. This will move the Williamsport-Blue Ribbon game back to Monday night.

Mumaw's Market is scheduled to play a doubleheader Saturday night. Deeds Dairy, Lancaster, and National Jewelers, Columbus, are the scheduled opponents.

pitched his fifth straight victory in beating the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 5.

The sprightly A's are only a game and a half behind the second-place Boston Red Sox, who were tripped up by Chicago, 3 to 2. The White Sox got off to a running start against Tex Hughson, scoring all their runs in the first inning.

New York's pace-setting Yankees increased their lead over the Red Sox to 13 games by trouncing the Indians, 9 to 3. The Yanks have yet to be beaten in Cleveland this season.

SEVEN SHOOTERS TIED FOR LEAD AT VANDALIA

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 22—Seven men were tied for top honors today in the preliminary handicap of the Grand American trapshoot, but there were still some 500 marksmen to compete.

As the 48th "Roaring Grand" neared its climax, the top shooters were R. E. Cocker, Wilmington, Ill., with 99x100 from the 18-yard line; D. M. Long, Pittsburg, Pa., with 99 from 20 yards; George Baille, Salem, O., 99 from 17 yards; Wilson Lasater, Kansas City, 99 from 17 yards; John Broughton, Ferguson, Mo., 99 from 21 yards; Joe Enzenberger, Chicago, 99 from 18 yards, and J. J. Rogers, Kansas City, 99 from 18 yards.

The Grand American itself was scheduled to get under way at noon with some 1,800 entries expected, and is expected to be concluded at noon tomorrow. However, the record-breaking entry list may delay both start and finish.

Some 700 shooters of the 1,750 entered in the preliminaries were still to go through the traps today to finish their firing.

BIRDS FALTER, HOLD ONLY HALF GAME MARGIN

By International News Service
Toledo wasn't much help to its Columbus partner in the American Association today, but St. Paul was making it easier for Kansas City to clinch the minor league pennant.

The Mud Hens lost a twin bill to third-place Milwaukee yesterday, 7 to 2 and 8 to 6, while the Red Birds, who are valiantly trying to displace the Brewers, were set back by the league-leading Kansas City Blues, 4 to 2.

With St. Paul nosing out Louisville, 4 to 3, the day's results found the Blues nine full games in the lead and the Red Birds, as a result of Toledo's twin loss and their own defeat, two games behind the Brewers and only a half game ahead of fifth-place Indianapolis.

The Hoosiers, meanwhile, were setting up their own ticket to take over from Columbus and move into fourth spot with a 10-to-5 victory over the Minneapolis Millers.

ASHVILLE REDS ON ROAD FOR TWIN PROGRAM

Ashville Reds, seeking to sew up the championship of the South Central Ohio Baseball league, will play a doubleheader at Jeffersonville Sunday.

Manager Carl Gulick is expected to use Leonard Hornsby and Mark Wylie on the mound in an effort to win two games from the fifth place Jeffersonville club.

Since Lancaster is playing a twin bill with seventh place Greenfield, the Reds will be trying extra hard to win. The Glassmen are expected to win both games with Greenfield and if the Reds drop a game the Lancaster team may cut the

RICHARDS NINE COMPETING IN STATE TOURNEY

District Champions To Stay
In Springfield During
Finals Play

Members of the Richards Implement team left Friday at 8 a. m. for Springfield, where they will compete in the state softball tournament.

Champions of district 8, the Richards club will vie with representatives of the other 14 districts and a host team for the Ohio championship and a trip to regional tournament.

The first Circleville team to play in state softball finals was scheduled to begin play at 1 p. m. Friday. First opponent is the Ashland Indians, Ashland. It previously had been announced by district officials that Richards would play an Akron team, but a check with state tournament officials proved this was incorrect.

IF THE IMPLEMENT men win their first game they play at 8 p. m. Friday, against the Springfield host team. If they win again they do not play again until Sunday at 8 p. m. in the semi-finals. Finals are set for Monday night.

• If Richards loses in its first start, the team will play again at 1 p. m. Saturday and if the local club wins then it will play again Sunday at 1 p. m. In the event Richards wins Friday afternoon and loses Friday night, the team plays again Saturday at 2 p. m.

MOST OF the members of the team will remain in Springfield for the entire tournament. They have reservations at the Shawnee and Bancroft hotels. Sunday afternoon Manager Ernest "Snap" Ankrom, Bob Tracey, Carl and Harold Gulick will leave the squad to play with Ashville Reds in the South Central Ohio Baseball league.

Players on the roster for the district champions in the state finals are: Ed Whaley, Harold Gulick, Carl Gulick, Robert Moon, Bill Ankrom, Manager Ankrom, Fred Immelt, Jack McGuire, Lloyd Shaw, Guy Easter, Todd McKinney, Robert Tracey, Paul Long, Max Woods, Bud Parker, Dick Wellington and Joe Drake.

ROBINSON DROPS SECREET IN IST WITH RIGHT CROSS

AKRON, O., Aug. 22—Welterweight champion Ray "Sugar" Robinson convinced the skeptics today that he still has his punch following his one-round kayo of Sammy Seecret last night in the Akron rubber bowl.

Robinson flattened Seecret for the full-count with the only right hand punch he threw in the fight. The terrific right cross followed a series of left jabs that had the veteran Seecret in trouble for the one minute 50 seconds which the fight lasted.

One unusual incident occurred when Seecret's handlers carried him into the ring to avoid getting his shoes wet on the rain-soaked grass. The Pittsburgh fighter left the ring under his own power.

The match was a benefit affair for the mother of Jimmy Doyle, who died of injuries after his bout with the welter champion last June in Cleveland. Rain held the crowd to 4,865 who paid $9,542 to see the fight.

SPEED DRIVERS SET FOR RECORD RUNS IN UTAH

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Aug. 22—Ab Jenkins and his son Marvin were poised early today for separate assaults on world records for land speed and driving endurance.

Wind and weather conditions over the Bonneville Salt Flats were to determine whether Ab Jenkins, America's speed monarch, would roar over the 13-mile auto racing course in an effort to smash the 369.7 mile-per-hour mark held by Britain's John Cobb.

In another racer—a 550 horsepower job—young Marvin Jenkins was set for a dawn takeoff over the course in an attempt to break both the 12-hour endurance record and the American class D one-mile speed mark.

International rivalry permeated the atmosphere at Utah's Salt Flats. Cobb, who made a test run over the course yesterday, was scheduled to make a try for a new speed record early next week, probably Monday.

Stiff crosswinds hampered Cobb yesterday as he was clocked at 334.26 MPH over a measured mile during the test run in his 24-cylinder racer.

Flaxen-haired Marvin Jenkins made racing history late yesterday by surpassing eight class D national and international records at an average speed of 179.434 miles per hour.

Young Jenkins, piloting a sleek racing juggernaut owned by Lou Welch, Los Angeles, blazed around the 11 and a half mile circular course to exceed existing records for the 5 kilometer, the 5 mile, and 10 kilometer and the 10 mile distances.

TODAY'S GARDEN-GRAPH

Registered U. S. Patent Office

Take Steps to Check Treehopper

By DEAN HALLIDAY Distributed by Central Press Association

IF YOU have apple, peach, pear, cherry or quince trees in your garden, be on the lookout for the Buffalo treehopper. First indication of its presence will be the rough, scaly, cracked appearance of the bark on branches and twigs. Trees or branches infested by treehoppers will never make vigorous growth.

In early fall the treehopper deposits its eggs in the bark of its favorite fruit trees or certain ornamental trees. The female has a sharp cutting tool with which she makes slits in the bark of twigs and through these forces her eggs into the inner bark. The scar resulting from these slits later separates to form the double crescent illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

When the egg-laying period is over the adults of the Buffalo treehopper die. An adult treehopper is illustrated. The eggs remain imbedded in the bark during winter. In the spring they hatch out into tiny nymphs, which drop from the trees and feed on weeds and grasses. They reach the adult stage in August.

Tree sanitation is the best method of controlling treehoppers. This means keeping down all weeds or grassy growth under and around the trees. To kill the overwintering eggs of this pest spray the infested trees with a dormant spray of six per cent oil. The use of dormant sprays, after the foliage has dropped, has been found to kill from 75 to 100 per cent of the eggs so cunningly deposited by Mrs. Treehopper.

STATE FAIR TO OPEN SATURDAY

400,000 Expected To Attend $25,000,000 Ohio Show In Columbus

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22—Agriculture's finest produce and livestock poured into the historic Ohio State fairgrounds today in preparation for the formal opening tomorrow of the week-long 25 million dollar exhibit.

Some 400,000 persons are expected to attend the 93rd annual event. Prices this year have been reduced from 75 to 60 cents for adults and from 30 to 25 cents for children, including tax.

Gates are to open each morning at 6 a. m., but the formal opening will be delayed until noon tomorrow, with a flag-raising ceremony in front of the administration building and welcoming addresses by Governor Herbert and agriculture director Frank Farnsworth.

FAIR MANAGER Edwin J. Bath was busy today trying to find exhibit space for an additional 416 head of cattle and 38 swine that exceeded the entry lists. The poultry entry list were cut off at 2,000. Bath said there was more machinery exhibit now than there was in the last pre-war year of 1941 with more arriving.

The midway, center of attraction for the youngsters of all ages, was being erected on 3 newly black-topped acres. Nearby, in "tent city," the 200-piece All-Ohio boys' band was practicing in the area which will house some 1,500 youthful members of junior agricultural organizations.

Premium lists for the fair top those of last year by 34 per cent, with livestock prizes totaling $91,689, the horse show $22,500, and the 19-event harness racing program $22,500.

Assignment: America

One point seems pretty generally agreed upon: the name of every person discharged because of disloyalty decision should be made public, and the board should be forced to prove its point—in court, if necessary. Otherwise, a cloud will hang over every single person who leaves government service during the next several months.

The state department's act in withholding the names of a dozen "poor security risk" employees recently discharged is good example. Others were "allowed to resign" for the same reason, the department said.

As a result of this secrecy hundreds of other former state department employees have been badly hurt. Many had only recently resigned their low-paid government jobs to take richer positions in private industry. But do American export-import foreign trade, finance and oil companies want Communies working for them? Of course not!

And, since the state department won't talk, the utterly innocent individual finds himself (1) under eternal suspicion, (2) refused the new job, or (3) summarily fired from his new post.

Meanwhile, the secrecy has accomplished nothing—for certainly the real Communist discharge to the party leader ship!

If the same impotent secrecy shrouds the loyalty probe, it will discredit every single government employee discharged during this period—and simultaneously give the real Communists plenty of cover in which to hide and continue operations.

The boys are going hunting with a big gun. I hope they shoot carefully before they shoot rather than hiding the bodies afterward.

1. Following are three Shakespearean quotations. Can you name the plays in which they appear? "For in that sleep of death, what dreams may come?"

3. "God made him, and therefore let him pass for a man."

Words of Wisdom

I love such mirth as does not make friends ashamed to look upon one another next morning; or men, that cannot well bear it, to repent of money they spend when they are warmed with drink; and take this for a rule, you may pick out such things and such companies, that you may make yourself merrier for a little than a great deal of money; for "it is the company and not the charge that makes the feast."

—Isaac Walton.

Hints on Etiquette

Have you ever been embarrassed when introducing a stranger to your own special group, by stumbling or being unable at the moment to remember the name of a member of the group whom you know very well? This often happens when you customarily call these people by their first names. If possible, go over the introductions in your own mind first, so that there will be less chance of this happening.

Today's Horoscope

You have a winsome and offhandedly humorous way of getting your own way. You are somewhat fastidious, have self-reliance, are modest and amiable. You have the ability to make others see things your way, and you will compel a deep and tender love. The day's influences are adverse. Things are not likely to turn out as anticipated. In your next year you will enjoy some good fortune, but do not waste it on prodigality and doubtful pleasures. Save some of your gains for the proverbial "rainy day." A child who is born on this date will be in danger of loss and trouble through questionable friendships, and an exotic mode of life.

Hot And Humid Weather Boon To Pickaway County Corn Growers

DELAYED GRAIN CROP EXPECTED TO MATURE NOW

Only Extended Dry Period Will Prevent Good Yield, Boggs Says

Hot, sticky, humid nights—nights during which humans writhe in torment—nights and days like those of the last two weeks are the answer to the corn farmer's prayer for help in maturing his crop ahead of the first Fall frost, John Boggs said today.

Chairman of the Pickaway county AAA Committee, Boggs said he did not believe the hot weather would harm the corn crop unless a prolonged period of dry weather sets in.

There was plenty of moisture in the ground before the hot spell, and the heavy dews of the mornings are aiding, he said. Even on gravelly land there has not been any harmful effects.

Corn has a good color and needs only continued moisture and hot nights to make a steady growth, he added.

OTHER CROPS in the county have not been hurt by the hot weather, agricultural leaders report.

Delayed by Spring cold weather and rains, crops now are making up for lost time. Hot and humid weather has made for rapid growth and there have been enough clouds to keep the hot sun from "sunburning" growing grain, vegetables and hay.

Discomfort among livestock on county farms has been noted but few farmers have suffered animal losses as the result of the heat. Few horses are used in cultivating the soil and the intense heat has not materially held up necessary farm work.

AMENDMENT ON GASOLINE TAX MAY BE VOTED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22 — A constitutional amendment to earmark all gasoline tax and motor vehicle revenues for highway and street purposes almost certainly will be placed on the ballot at the Nov. 4 election.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel declared today that signatures filed to place the proposal on the ballot were insufficient "by about 2,000 names." However, supplemental petitions were taken out immediately and sponsors promised to file sufficient additional valid signatures in the next ten days.

A total of 230,375 signatures—ten per cent of the vote cast for governor at the last election—is needed. The sponsors, the Ohio Committee for Better Roads and Streets, filed some 193,000 signatures from all 88 counties. But a check by local election boards invalidated some 65,000 because they were signed with lead pencil or because they were names of non-registered voters.

TENANT HELD AFTER DEATH ENDS ARGUMENT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22 — Joseph A. Gangidine's feud with his landlord, Sanford Murphy, 31, was over today but Gangidine faced even more trouble as a result.

The 25-year-old Clevelander was held by police today in connection with the fatal shooting of Murphy yesterday. Murphy died in Fairview park hospital from a bullet wound over his left eye.

According to police, the two men became involved in an argument in the basement of the two-family home Murphy owned. In the scuffle that followed, Gangidine told police he was struck on the head with a pop bottle.

Gangidine said he then wanted to scare Murphy with a pistol he had but that his arm was deflected when he fired.

SCHOOL LUNCH PROGRAM BEING REVISED IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22 — Cancellation of all 1068 public school lunch program contracts effective Aug. 25 was announced today by state education director Clyde Hissong.

Hissong declared that agencies which had reimbursable contracts must negotiate new agreements under the 1947-48 schedule which has been cut 26.6 per cent from last year if they wanted to continue their participation.

Chairman R. M. Garrison, of the elementary and secondary education division, who will handle contract negotiations, asserted there would be no funds available this year for purchase of lunch room equipment. He explained that in contract writing increased emphasis will be placed on "need and attendance."

Columnist Tells Rotarians Annual Event Should Have More Pumpkins

Circleville's annual Pumpkin Show is fast becoming a pumpkin show without a pumpkin, Johnny Jones, Columbus Dispatch columnist, declared Thursday at the regular Rotary luncheon meeting at Hanley's.

Condemning the show as now only a carnival, Jones, Rotarian after-dinner speaker, said there should be pumpkins, pumpkins and more pumpkins—pumpkins everywhere with plenty of pumpkin pies for sale.

PUMPKINS MUST be the keynote of the show if it is to continue a success, he said, urging that huge quantities be displayed everywhere. Better entertainment should be provided with prominent people being brought here like Ted Lewis or his equal, according to Jones.

During his speech Jones also praised the street lights, predicted prosperity was here to stay for quite a while, stated that the world hates us, called Russia a big bluff who will not stop until we stop her; and urged the United States to shove our ideas down Russia's throat, predicting that no bloodshed would result if we did so.

PRINTERS DARE EMPLOYMENT OF NON-UNION HELP

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22 — Employers of newspaper and commercial composing room workers virtually were dared today by the AFL-International Typographical Union to hire nonunion help.

The ITU, in convention session yesterday in Cleveland, amended its century-old constitution to provide that hereafter no written contracts will be negotiated with employers. Instead, the printers will work under "conditions of employment so long as they are individually able and willing."

Woodruff Randolph, president of the ITU, said the policy is intended to preserve the closed shop without a written guarantee.

Smallest Corn Crop Since 1936 Predicted

SOARING PRICES OF MEAT, EGGS DUE TO FOLLOW

Dry Weather Through Grain Belt Blamed For Short Yield By Government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 — A government forecast of the smallest corn crop since the great drought of 1936 today presented the possibility of higher prices for meats, poultry, eggs and dairy products.

Some agricultural economists even talked of eggs selling at $1 a dozen as a result of the situation which also may bring about a downward revision of the grain export program.

The agriculture department's crop reporting board estimated the 1947 corn harvest as of Aug. 15 at two billion 437 million bushels, a drop of 223 million in prospective production.

THE BOARD blamed dry, hot weather throughout the corn belt for the outlook that the corn harvest will be 202 million bushels below average and 563 million bushels less than the agriculture department's original goal for the year.

Meanwhile, corn and oats climbed to new all-time record prices on the Chicago market. Fears that the lack of rain in the corn belt would cause further deterioration of the crop aroused a heavy demand for futures.

AGRICULTURE officials, in announcing October allocations of grain for export, said significantly that no corn is included.

However, total export allotments of other grains for that month currently are fixed at 1,213,000 long tons (48,536,000 bushels) or 16,500 long tons more than the September export quota.

There was no official statement on a possible reduction in grain exports, either by chopping earlier estimates for October or by setting aside smaller amounts in subsequent months.

Informed quarters insisted, however, that reduced supplies of feed grain unquestionably will be reflected in rising prices on livestock, meats and other foods.

ANTI-BRITISH RIOTING SPREADING TO EGYPT

CAIRO, Aug. 22—Anti-British rioting spread to Egypt today. Forty persons, including 10 mounted policemen, were reported injured in a demonstration in the Elzhar district of Cairo.

Rioting also was reported in Alexandria.

ONE MAN'S OPINION

By Walter Kiernan

The back to the soil movement is gaining converts but it seems odd to think of Elliott Roosevelt settling down with a plow and a deep freezer.

Elliott will farm 830 acres but he'll get more honest callouses on his hands than shaking hands with 830 back-slappers brought him.

There's one thing about a farm—it never signs an expense account for a party you didn't attend.

But I hear now that Elliott is going to raise Christmas trees. The Republicans will next investigate Santa Claus.

For future reports on Elliott, skip the Broadway columns and try the columns of the Farmer's Journal.

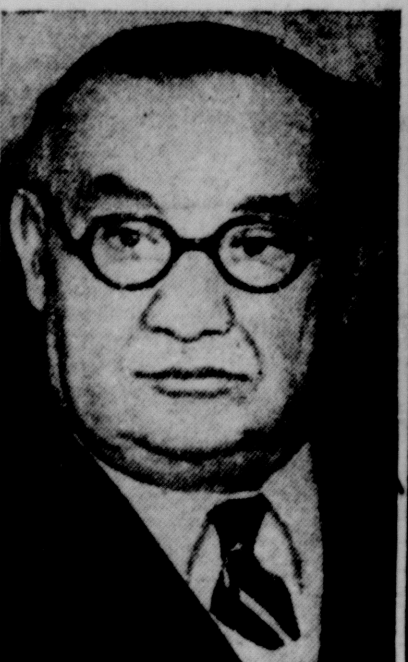

And now a bulletin from Schenectady—a robber made off with two steaks there—Police are considering offering a reward.

BRITISH LOAN Unions 'Beat The Gun' UNDER STUDY On Taft-Hartley Law

Final Action On Proposed Revision Of Agreement Being Held Up

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—Final action on the proposed revision of the British loan agreement hinged today on full clarification of the United Kingdom's economic prospects for the balance of 1947 and the first half of 1948.

Sir Wilfred Eady, head of the British economic delegation to the Anglo-American financial talks now going on in Washington, estimated that the full picture will not emerge "for perhaps another few weeks."

In the meantime, Treasury Secretary John W. Snyder announced that the British delegation will hold further joint meetings with the President's national advisory council to discuss the British request for relaxation of restrictions on the use of dollar credit remaining in the fund.

Eady, in default of a definite estimate of British financial prospects, outlined to the conference "a general forecast" of the English trade prospects for the 1947-48 period.

SEARCH STARTED FOR HERBS USED IN NEW CURE

FREMONT, O., Aug. 22—Joseph David, a former Hungarian newspaperman, today instituted a nationwide search for 10 pounds of rare chemicals needed in the synthetic processing of a newly-discovered cure for infant diarrhea.

According to David, the cure was discovered by his uncle, Dr. Louis David, head of the medicine research department of the University of Szeged, Hungary. David said that the drug is composed of herbs found both in the United States and Europe. Known as UD-3, the drug first came to light following the death of 84 infants aboard the "Honey-moon boat" ocean liner which was conveying European war brides to their American ex-GI husbands.

Dr. David, according to his nephew, now is attempting to manufacture the drug in wholesale quantities. He said he is aiding his uncle in the search for the chemical, calcium oxydium, which is an essential ingredient of the formula.

ITALY SEEKS FUNDS

ROME, Aug. 22—Premier De Gasperi informed his cabinet today that in view of Italy's grave economic situation he has decided to request two more loans abroad. A loan of 100 million dollars will be asked from the import and export bank and an additional 250 million dollars from the world bank for international reconstruction.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 — The Taft-Hartley labor law became fully effective today amidst a last-minute flurry of activity by unions to "beat the gun" on its sweeping restrictions.

Enacted by congress to promote industrial peace, final provisions of the statute went into operation at 12:01 o'clock this morning—60 days after its passage over President Truman's veto.

Forty seconds before the deadline, the Ford motor company and the CIO United Auto Workers announced completion of an agreement embodying UMW demands for a union shop and immunization against strike penalty provisions of the new law.

In New York, the AFL Longshoremen's association terminated a walkout of 1900 dockmen which has tied up 11 ships in order to avoid losing contract privileges under the Taft-Hartley statute.

AN EIGHT-DAY strike of the AFL seafarers international union against the Isthmian steamship line also was settled ahead of the deadline.

Two powerful unions, the AFL International Typographical union and Harry Bridges' CIO longshoremen on the Pacific coast, served notice, however, that they will combat some provisions of the labor act.

THE ITU announced that it will refuse to sign contracts with publishers but will post in each shop "conditions of employment" under which the men will work. The printers will insist on

SIEGEL'S GIRL FRIEND VICTIM OF SLEEP PILLS

MIAMI BEACH, FLA., Aug. 22—Virginia Hill, auburn-haired, 30-year-old playgirl friend of the late Benjamin "Bugsy" Siegel, was reported in a serious condition at a Miami Beach hospital today suffering from an overdose of sleeping pills.

Police Chief P. R. Short said Miss Hill was admitted to St. Francis hospital last night after being in an unconscious condition most of yesterday.

The Miami Herald quoted Short as saying he went to the Hill home on Sunset Island about 9 p. m. and later announced that "she evidently took an overdose of sleeping pills."

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 — The closed shop, despite the Taft-Hartley law's ban on this clause, Bridges' union, which represents many west coast dock foremen now on strike, prepared to fight against the law's withdrawal of union bargaining rights for supervisory workers.

THE UNION said that if an employer fires foremen for belonging to the union, picket lines will be established at other maritime concerns and ports.

The new statute imposed restrictions on the activities of unions representing 15,000,000 workers.

Mr. Truman let the occasion pass without comment, telling his news conference that he said all he could in denouncing the measure as unworkable while it was before congress.

RED GENERAL PROMISES PROBE OF ABDUCTION

SEOUL, Korea, Aug. 22—The Russian commander in north Korea notified American headquarters in Seoul today that an "investigation" was being made of three United States soldiers held incommunicado in the Soviet occupation zone for the last ten days.

Lt. Gen. C. P. Korotkov, Red army chief in the north Korean area, sent word that as soon as the inquiry is completed "a report will be submitted."

The message was received in Seoul by the intelligence unit of the U. S. Army troops occupying the southern half of Korea.

It was the first official word from the Russians on the incident since the soldiers were seized by the Soviets Aug. 12 after they inadvertently stepped over the 38th parallel which divides the two occupation zones.

Thus far, Korotkov has ignored two strong protest notes dispatched to him by the American occupation commander, Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge, who demanded immediate release of the soldiers and an explanation for their abduction.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 — The old, time-honored remark that the weather is getting warmer every year was roundly denounced today by the U. S. weather bureau which blames the misconception on "human nature."

G. C. Bristow, a bureau climatic expert, declared that the weather is "just about the same as it always has been" and said the whole thing stems from "childhood memories."

Bristow explained that a child pays more attention to weather and particularly notes exceptionally cold winters and devastating storms.

BILBO'S BODY LIES IN STATE

Speculation On Successor Begins While Funeral Is Being Planned

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 22—The body of Sen. Theodore G. Bilbo was moved at noon today from New Orleans to his "dream house" at Poplarville, Miss., where it will lie in state.

No services were planned in New Orleans where the 69-year-old unseated Democratic senator died in Foundation hospital.

Last rites for the stormy champion of white supremacy were planned amid widespread speculation as to his successor.

SOME POLITICAL observers believed that Governor Fielding H. Wright of Mississippi might appoint A. B. Friend, Bilbo's campaign manager and personal confidant, for the interim term.

Others predicted that Wright might name himself.

The Governor had no comment.

Mississippi attorney general Greek L. Kuce said the law does not require appointment of a successor since congress is not in session.

If the post is temporarily left vacant, a successor would be chosen at a special election held in conjunction with the 1948 general election.

THE FILIBUSTERING senator died at 2:05 p. m. yesterday. (Continued on Page Two)

Scioto River Probed For Possible Victims After Lightning Rips Bridge

BULLETIN
COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22 — Miss Marion Johnson, 51, died in Mt. Carmel hospital today of injuries suffered when a lightning bolt struck the West Broad street bridge over the Scioto river in downtown Columbus Thursday evening.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22—Grappling and wrecking operations were resumed today at the main bridge over the Scioto river in downtown Columbus in an effort to find the bodies of possible additional victims of a lightning bolt which struck the span at the end of the evening rush hour yesterday.

Rescuers recovered four persons, all from Columbus, who had been hurled off the span into the stream. One of them, Miss Marion Johnson, 51, was in very critical condition. She received blast injuries, internal hemorrhages and shock.

The other three were reported in fair condition today. They were identified as Armit Spohn, 30, Miss Irene Murphy, 24, and Janet Klinkert, 36. The four victims were employees of the veterans administration.

THE APPARENT lack of heavy casualties was attributed to a near cloudburst which kept office workers and others inside buildings. The downpour started about a half hour before the accident and water was running curb-high in the gutters.

A severe electrical storm had tied up electrical system transportation and the rain had cut down the heavy stream of traffic. Virtually no pedestrians were on the streets.

The downpour started to let up shortly before the bridge was hit by the lightning which caused downtown office buildings to shake as if an earthquake had occurred.

City and Franklin county employees brought a crane into play to move massive slabs of reinforced concrete in their search for additional victims. The sections of the bridge which had been tossed into the

SHERIFF SAYS LIGHTNING BLAST WAS 'TERRIFIC'

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff, and Talmer Wise, 146 East Franklin street, were in Columbus city hall when lightning ripped two spans of the West Broad street bridge Thursday.

Sheriff Radcliff heard the crack of the lightning and stated that it was terrific, but returned to Circleville without knowing the extent of damage. He stated that it sounded like it had hit at Broad and High. City hall is only a short distance northeast of the blasted bridge.

The blast smashed the south side of the span as if a stick of bombs had been dropped on it. Electric light poles were bent in two, steel beams were twisted, trolley wires knocked down, and the concrete sections over three arches were dumped into the water. Hundreds of bricks were blasted more than 100 feet into the air and scattered all over the bridge flooring.

ABOUT THREE hundred feet near the west end of the structure was ripped apart. Damage (Continued on Page Two)

AUSTRALIA ASKS STUDY OF VETO

Surprise Move Puts Issue On Agenda Of UN; New Members Also Up

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., Aug. 22—Australia in a surprise move at the United Nations today placed the question of the Big Five veto and of the admission of new members on the agenda of the general assembly.

W. R. Hodgson, Australian delegate to Lake Success, beat today's eleven o'clock deadline on listing assembly items by formally delivering a lettered request from his government to Secretary-General Trygve Lie.

The Australian request also asks that the assembly consider the greater activation and use by U. N. of the international court of justice.

Hodgson's letter came on the heels of the eight consecutive vetoes wielded by the Soviet Union in the security council within four weeks, running the total over one year up to 18.

The letter specifies that while some of the items already may be on the assembly list, the Australian government desires that the listing should be made "with greater certainty."

The inclusion of the membership question again raises the prospects of the vetoed states such as Austria and Italy for U. N. entry before the end of the year, since the Australians and the United States are determined to spearhead a drive for some sort of action by the assembly opening the door to "deserving" countries.

HOT WEEKEND FORECAST AGAIN BY WEATHERMAN

Heavy Rains Cause Damage To Pickaway Crops; High Of 95 Recorded

Only slight relief from the extended heat wave resulted following an electrical and rain storm which hit Circleville and vicinity Thursday.

No general relief was indicated by weather forecasters who warned that another hot weekend could be expected.

A high mark of 95 was recorded in Circleville Thursday before rain cooled the air and gave some residents their first night of rest for some time. But the official mercury dipped only to 68 degrees during the night and started climbing again Friday morning. By noon unofficial readings in the mid-eighties were reported in downtown Circleville.

A NEAR CLOUDBURST hit Ashville and vicinity. Roads in the area were covered with water and Friday morning most fields still had water standing in them. Considerable damage to corn was reported, especially in fields which have slopes.

County Engineer Henry McCrady said two trees were down on the Florence Chapel road near Fox and were removed by county workmen.

Damage resulting from the thunderstorm Thursday evening was slight in Circleville.

Clarence W. Helvering, city service director, said he had received no complaints of damage from overflowing storm sewers or of any other property damage.

Darby township in the area around Darby received plenty of rain. Dewey Downs, vice-chairman of the AAA office said, reporting that the streams were bank-full Thursday night, with water laying in the fields.

THE 15TH AUGUST day with the mercury zooming to 90 degrees or higher was in the making today as the weather bureau predicted that the heat wave will continue unabated through Sunday.

Relief from the sickening inferno was occurring only for

FOUR INJURED IN COLLISION ON 3-C HIGHWAY

Four persons were hurt in a collision on the 3-C highway near Harrisburg in Pickaway county during a heavy rain storm Thursday night.

Highway patrolmen reported an automobile, driven by Robert C. Parrett, Washington C. H. funeral director, overturned after crashing into the side of a dump truck, operated by John Cacchio, 26, Columbus.

Injured were Glenn Owens, 41, Washington C. H., chief delegate from the Washington lodge to the Moose convention, who suffered a dislocated right hip and body cuts; Jacob Weiser, 57, secretary of the Washington C. H. Moose lodge, back injuries; Parrett, minor cuts and bruises; Cacchio, bruises. All were treated at Mt. Carmel hospital, Columbus, and discharged.

Parrett, charged with reckless driving by State Patrolman J. E. Mansberger, was fined $25 and costs by Justice H. O. Eveland here.

HOT WEEKEND FORECAST AGAIN BY WEATHERMAN

brief periods and in widely-scattered places as the moisture-saturated atmosphere let loose with thundershowers and destructive electrical storms.

A downpour of 2.13 inches hit Columbus last night and at the same time the capital city's main bridge over the Scioto river was hit asunder by a terrific bolt of lightning.

Four persons were hurled into the river as part of the structure virtually was disintegrated by the atomic-like flash. Rescue workers were continuing their search for other possible victims.

MEANWHILE, the states of Ohio, Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Iowa, Wisconsin, Kansas, Montana and the Dakotas continued to bake in the mass of stagnant, hot air that refused to move along and allow itself to be displaced by cooler air from northern Canada.

The nation's corn belt was in the midst of the burning heat and estimates of the crop total were diminishing each and every day the heat and drought continues.

Many of Ohio's farm areas have been more fortunate as thundershowers quenched the thirst of the field crops. More afternoon and evening thundershowers were forecast by Weatherman Milton Davis to bring additional relief in some areas.

HEAT PROSTRATIONS and factory layoffs were on the increase. Cincinnati reported another heat wave death and some drownings were adding to the uncounted toll building up since the mercury first hit into the 90's on Aug. 3.

Cleveland and other Ohio cities were marking up the seventh consecutive day of 90-plus temperatures, the longest period of high readings since the record nine days of July, 1941, when the mercury reached an all-time high of 103 degrees.

The sixth city yesterday again topped the state with a high of 96 degrees and a similar reading was predicted for today. High temperatures elsewhere in the state were to be comparable.

Across the nation, the mercury boiled to 105 degrees at Pierre, S. D., and Bismarck, N. D. It was 94 at Chicago and in the high 90's in most of the heat-affected areas.

HIGH AND LOW temperatures and rainfall amounts in inches, respectively, at various points for the 24-hour period ending at 8 a. m. today were:

Akron 91-71; Chesapeake 94-71, 01; Cincinnati 93-71, 03; Cleveland 96-70, 02; Columbus 92-68, 2.13; Dayton 91-71; East Liverpool 87-69, 52; Findlay 93-71, 74; Hayesville 90-70; Parkersburg, W. Va., 90-68, 1.93; Perry 88-72, 01; Toledo 92-70; Wilmington 90-69; Youngstown 92-69, .21, and Zanesville 93-67, .13.

Four and a half hours after the lightning hit, traffic was allowed to cross on the north portion of the span.

Franklin county engineer Allen Slade and city engineer Paul W. Maetzel declared that all seven arches and the main supports were undamaged.

Only one car was believed to have been on the bridge at the time of the accident. Witnesses said they had seen it drive off after the lightning flash.

U. S. Army General Blames Reds For Plot In American Zone

SEOUL (Korea), Aug. 22—America's top commander in South Korea announced today that a planned revolution, inspired in part by "direction" from Russian-held North Korea, has been smashed in the United States occupation zone with the arrest of 100 Koreans.

Starting signal for the uprising, it was stated, was to have been the blowing up of the American-controlled Seoul radio station.

Disclosure of the abortive conspiracy was made immediately after a Russian spokesman in Seoul charged that "this tense moment" had been chosen for what he termed "mass arrests" of leftist leaders and "pogroms" against radical papers in the American occupation zone.

The Americans, in turn, accused the Soviet delegation to the joint U. S.-Russian commission on Korea of "attempting to interfere in the conduct of the government of South Korea."

BURSTING INTO the open, the controversy over the arrest of the alleged Korean terrorists added to tension already generated by the seizure in Soviet-held North Korea of three American soldiers who have been held by the Russians for the last ten days.

The suppression of what he called a "widespread" insurrectionary plot was revealed by Lt. Gen. John R. Hodge who charged that some of the arrested persons belonged to groups acting under "directions from North Korea."

Hodge, commander of the U. S. occupation forces in the southern half of the country, declared:

"A plan to blow up the radio station in Seoul on August 12th was the beginning of a plan of disorders."

"Documentary evidence showed a widespread plan of a revolutionary nature."

"The South Korea government decided it was time to pick up the offenders as their activities were getting out of hand."

Hodge, replying to the Soviet charge of "pogroms" against Korean leftists, told newsmen 100 suspects were being held and added:

"There is no political significance in these arrests. The persons apprehended ran afoul of the law. The arrested persons include rightists and leftists."

APPRAISAL ASKED

Petition for appraisal of the estate of Pearl Roese was filed Thursday. Charles E. Roese, Route 2, Ashville, son of the deceased was appointed administrator under $500 bond. The estate was estimated at $4,000.

REAL ESTATE MEN READY TO FIGHT CHARGES

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—The National Association of Real Estate Boards prepared today to defend itself in the event a grand jury investigation of Washington realtors widens into a justice department probe of the national "real estate lobby" recently denounced by President Truman.

Herbert U. Nelson, executive secretary of the association flew to Washington from California and met in closed session with officials of the national and District of Columbia boards.

Nelson announced later that the group had decided to "present a common defense" and had retained Henry Price, Washington attorney, as counsel. The real estate association leader declared:

"The grand jury investigation of Washington real estate practices seems to be cloaked in mystery. None of us is quite sure what it's all about, or what the justice department hopes to develop."

"However, we're going to be ready to protect ourselves—just in case."

EXPERT DENIES WEATHER STORY

freezing temperatures of Russia and northern Europe.

THE SHIRT-SLEEVED expert, sweltering in Washington's 90 degree heat, talked of possible changes in climate should the icy glaciers of the north and south poles continue melting to the point of disintegration.

Bristow said that if the glaciers disappeared the weather to the north would be "much milder" and would open the land to possible agricultural development.

Tropical areas, however, would not be affected since the climate there is "as warm as it will ever get." He said northern temperatures never change tropical weather.

But the chances of complete disappearance of the glaciers seem remote. Bristow said that "ice ages have occurred in history" and more than likely glaciers now melting will begin to enlarge sooner or later.

But if the unexpected happens, there's no need to worry, it'll take several thousand years to melt the ice mountains.

SENATOR SEES NEW DUST BOWL THREAT IN WEST

Price Support Program
For Farmers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Sen. Young (R) N. D., declared today that a new "dust-bowl" threat is shaping up in western states from the Canadian line down into Texas.

At the same time, Young and Sen. Sparkman (D) Ala., both forecast in interviews that Congress will continue price support, coupled with voluntary production controls and soil conservation as a long-range program.

The present price support program expires Dec. 31, 1948.

Young attributed what he termed the "dust-bowl" dangers to heavy wartime and postwar food production, with less emphasis on conservation, and with huge tracts of prairie grasslands plowed up for tilled crops. He said:

"If it were not for soil conservation practices of the past we would be in worse shape than we were prior to the dust-bowl years of 1934 and 1936."

THE NORTH Dakota Republican supported the agricultural aid program that grew out of Henry Wallace's plan of the early new deal era. He said:

"There definitely will have to be support of prices—though probably not on the same basic levels as now."

"Farmers have been asked to boost production in the war years. They now are recalling the disaster that followed World War I. They are beginning to talk about cutting production."

YOUNG AND Sparkman both said that production controls and soil conservation must be tied in with price support.

Sparkman said:

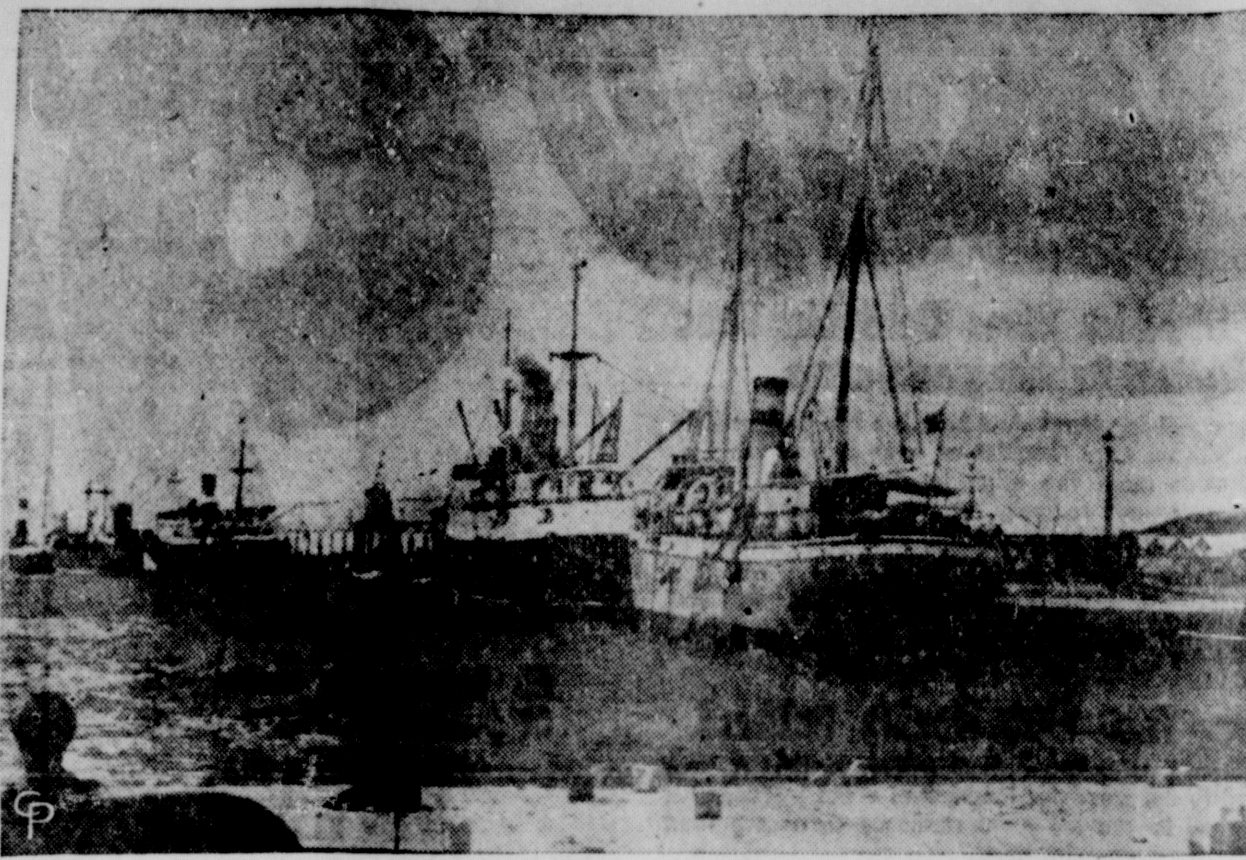

"I don't see any alternative. We will have to have a support program, and the only way to carry it out is to have also a self-imposed production control program."

"I think we have the best program we ever had, combining price support, acreage controls and soil conservation."

Both said they opposed the "economy of scarcity," which was involved in the early Wallace plan, and which brought re-sounding protests over "killing the little pigs."

They said also that they believed Congress would discard any proposals to subsidize the sale of surpluses abroad on grounds that it would collide with the nation's reciprocal trade program.

UNION CHURCH SERVICES END SUNDAY NIGHT

'Rehabilitation' To Be Topic Of Rev. Wilson At Ted Lewis Park

Concluding session of the Summer union church services at Ted Lewis Park shelter house will be held Sunday evening, August 24 at 7:30 o'clock. For eight weeks these vesper services have been co-sponsored by the Circleville Ministerial Association and the Circleville Kiwanis Club with ministers from Circleville and Pickaway county participating through presiding and delivering the sermons.

Sunday evening the Rev. Carl L. Wilson, pastor of the First Evangelical United Brethren church and president of the Pickaway county and Circleville Ministerial Association, will deliver the sermon. His topic, "Rehabilitation," will be developed from two scriptural directives, Nehemiah 2:20 and Ephesians 2:19-22.

In arranging the order of service, the Rev. Mr. Wilson secured the service of Charles Kirkpatrick as song leader and Miss Lucille Kirkwood as pianist. He has also secured the services of Mr. and Mrs. Orla Bradford, evangelistic musicians, from Westerville. The Bradfords are well known in Pickaway county and Circleville for their work in various churches. They furnish instrumental and vocal numbers of special music. The feature of their presentation is through the combination of the artist and the musician. Mr. Bradford is an accomplished chalk artist while his wife supplements his drawing by appropriate vocal and piano numbers. The Bradfords have chosen "Jesus of Galilee," as the Sunday evening musical drawing sermonette.

Ushers from the First church, under the direction of Roy Groce, will serve in their respective capacity. The following order of service has been announced: prelude, call to worship, Gloria Patri, invocation, hymn, meditation and devotions, hymn, offertory, doxology, prayer, sermon, benediction, postlude.

Since this is the last service of the 1947 series, it is the hope of the co-sponsors that a large congregation will attend Sunday evening.

REPEATER FLASH FOR CAMERAS DISPLAYED HERE

A new piece of flash photographic equipment, the first of its kind to be seen in Circleville, is being demonstrated by Harry Isaacs, proprietor of the Mayfair Studios.

The new "gadget" is called "Everflash" and uses instead of the usual replaceable flash bulb a repeating flash tube which can be used 10,000 times before replacement. It resembles a radio tube and is filled with xenon gas, a rare inactive chemical element. It is flashed by means of condensing mechanisms powered by a small portable wet cell.

A special feature of the bulb, in addition to its long life, is the speed of the flash which occurs in 1-10,000 of a second—10 to 20 times faster than any camera shutters in practical use. Synchronization is accomplished by timing the flash to occur between the opening and closing of the shutter. For focal plane shutters, open, flash, close, technique must be used because of the speed of the flash.

This speed enables the photographer to "stop-action" moving subjects. The flash is a bluish-white color which makes it ideal for color photography without correction.

A PEACE DEPARTMENT

R. M. DAVIS, a Morgantown, W. Va., coal operator, wants to see street-level straight-from-the shoulder diplomacy developed, and a peace department to operate along with the war department in the United States cabinet. Since 1942 he has crusaded for peace through speeches, books he has written, radio addresses, scholarships in international relations in two American colleges and prizes for high school peace essays.

Mr. Davis believes American diplomats should be able to speak the language of the country where they serve in order that they may pick up the feelings of the average citizens of foreign countries, and transmit those attitudes accurately to the American people. His idea of a peace department got as far as having a bill for it introduced in the House. It did not come to a vote before the adjournment of the 80th Congress.

But Mr. Davis is not discouraged. A good many Americans, especially those whose young men died on foreign battle fields, will agree with what he said recently to President Truman: "We have had two world wars in 25 years. There is something wrong with the set-up. We must do something to correct it."

CAPITALIST VENTURE

CAPTAIN BILL ODOM, in an interview in Washington after his return from his 73-hour world-girdling flight, said that he did not believe that the Russians had a plane which could be used in duplicating his performance. He also remarked that they don't have a Milton Reynolds, either.

He had something there. In a totalitarian regime, everybody's time and energy are used to the fullest extent in producing little more than the essentials of life. The Russians might, in time, produce such a plane as the one used by Odom, but they are making every effort not to produce an industrialist like Reynolds who can afford to finance a world flight, not only once, but three times.

The two flights previously sponsored and another projected for the future are, of course, advertising on a large scale. They are also adventures which test the capacity of the plane and the ability of the pilot, besides providing other valuable information, at enormous cost to a private individual. This sort of magnificent gesture is impossible to a Russian citizen.

MICE AND MEN

"ARE YOU a man or a mouse?" This question, which angry wives sometimes ask their husbands, is based on the idea that it is better to be a man. This is not always the case. In Bar Harbor, Me., a memorial laboratory for cancer research will build a three-story apartment to house 150,000 mice. Apartment space for 150,000 humans would really make a dent in the housing situation in most communities.

ASSIGNMENT: AMERICA

By Kenneth L. Dixon
Distributed by International News Service

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22—It was more than 20 years ago that Dad took the old Stevens single-shot .22 rifle down off the wall and brought it outside where mother stood watching the proceedings with misgivings and Jack, our nondescript hunting dog, wagged his tail in an ecstasy of expectation.

"It will be all right," Dad reassured mother. "He's old enough to go hunting alone." Then he handed me the gun.

"Just don't forget," he said, "that this thing will kill boys and dogs as well as rabbits. It's your responsibility to know what's in front of the sights before you pull the trigger."

I didn't get any rabbits that first hunting trip, but I didn't shoot any boys or dogs, either. And sometimes, I wish that a few guys like Dad were around today to sound the same quiet warning about deadly weapons to a few government officials.

For this new full-scale federal loyalty investigation is a rifle of higher caliber than this country ever before has found it necessary to use in peacetime.

"They're using it to hunt Communists, and others of doubtful patriotism who may be in government employ—and few people would question that such a weapon, properly handled, is badly needed today.

But, like the old .22 single-shot, it's going to hit whatever's in front of its sights when the trigger is pulled, and unless it's mighty carefully aimed, a lot of innocent and perfectly loyal people are going to get shot by mistake—or scared to death.

Already, they're frightened at the prospect.

Here in Washington, they're now fingerprinting the first of some two million federal workers across the country who will be given the loyalty test before the project is finished. And already, the effect on those workers is a thought-provoking development.

Ask them if they think the loyalty probe is a good thing. Inevitably, they counter the question by asking if you're going to use their names. If you say you are, their answers are wooden and almost identical.

"Yes," they say, "it's a good thing because we certainly shouldn't have any disloyal people in the government." Some of them add, "it's perfectly all right with me. I don't have anything to hide."

But assure them that you won't use their names, and the answers are entirely different. For instance:

"How can you prove a man's loyalty?"

"Who's going to be the judge?"

"What's to keep the real Commies from lying?"

"What constitutes loyalty?" Will I get fired if I go to hear Henry Wallace talk, just out of curiosity?"

"What if I disagree with my boss? Is that disloyalty? Can he go to the board and get me fired?"

And so on. The frightening point is that already these people feel they dare not criticize the probe—an act of their own government—for fear of being declared disloyal. Thus simply can hard-won freedom of speech be flung away.

New Weapons Against Disease

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
WE stand today at the threshold of the atomic age; and many of us stand there in fear and trembling. We are aware of the destructive power unleashed by science in the splitting of the atom, but forget that the same forces may also be used as powerful weapons against disease.

Even before the actual splitting of the atom, early experiments had given us certain radioactive elements which could be used in the treatment of various ailments. We can get some idea of what the future may hold by a look at past experience with one of the first of the elements to be rendered radioactive—phosphorus. Radioactive phosphorus has been employed in the treatment of various disorders over a period of ten years and a great deal has been learned concerning its use.

Study of Patients
Dr. Edward Reinhard of St. Louis, Missouri, and his co-workers, have been able to study almost 300 patients in whom the radioactive phosphorus was employed.

The preparation may be administered either by injection into a vein or by mouth. However, by mouth larger doses are necessary. The best results with radioactive phosphorus have been obtained in a disorder known as polycythemia in which there is an increase in the number of red cells in the blood. This condition causes such symptoms as shortness of breath, and loss of weight and strength.

In carrying out the treatment, the radioactive phosphorus is administered for a few days and then no more is given for three months. In another three months, if the condition still persists, a second course of the drug is administered, and some patients need even a third course three months later. From then on, no further treatment is given unless a relapse develops.

Relieves the Symptoms
Another disorder in which the radioactive phosphorus is employed is one known as chronic myelogenous leukemia. In this disorder, the radioactive phosphorus greatly relieves the symptoms, lessening the size of the spleen, which is located in the left upper part of the abdomen, and seems to relieve the anemia which is present in this condition, that is, the lessening of the number of red cells in the blood.

In myelogenous leukemia, there is an increase in the number of white cells in the blood, particularly the type known as myelocytes. With the radioactive phosphorus treatment, the number of these cells in the blood was greatly reduced. Several patients have been relieved of their symptoms for a period of a year or more.

Less Satisfactory Results
In lymphatic leukemia, a disorder in which there is also a great increase in the white cells of the blood, treatment with the radioactive phosphorus gives less satisfactory results. Improvement for short periods of time, however, are brought about. It would appear that in this latter disorder, X-ray treatment may be of greater help than the use of the radioactive phosphorus.

Radioactive phosphorus is rather scarce at present, but gradually more and more will be made available and with it will come other radioactive materials which may give medical science of the atomic age the means of conquering what are now regarded as mysterious and fatal diseases.

ORCHIDS for Mother

CHAPTER ONE

GAIL PRENTICE lay face down on the gleaming white sand, the hot February sun beaming down on her carefully oiled back and legs. The sun's rays were scarcely impeded by a bathing suit that consisted of brief white shorts and a bandeau knotted in front. She was already tanned to a delicious golden hue that enhanced the smooth shining gold of her hair and the sapphire blue of her eyes.

Florida was at her most perfect on this early February day. The ocean gleamed behind Gail, a brilliant, incredible turquoise blue broken by the long, creamy breakers racing inward to expire on the beach with a soft hissing sound. But as she lay now with her face to the sun, she wasn't thinking of the beauty of the scene about her. Her thoughts were not happy ones and her soft mouth had an undeniable droop at the corners. It wasn't much fun being a "professional house guest," with never enough money to have a place of one's own, no matter how tiny; never enough money to pay bills, to buy clothes.

There were times when Gail and her mother had to do some inspired figuring in order to achieve ends for the necessary tips before leaving on a house party to join another. One had to tip the servants, Lissa always explained, because servants were such snobs and could make things very unpleasant for one on one's return visit. And it was desperately necessary that one be able to make a return visit.

Of course, Gail reminded herself sadly, everyone was glad to have Lissa as a house guest. Lissa was beautiful and gay and always made a party go. But despite her own popularity, Gail knew herself to be a misfit in this sort of life and that she made things a bit more difficult for Lissa. Which hurt, because she adored her mother and wanted her to have an easy time. But when she suggested that now she was nearly twenty there was really no reason why she should not get a job, Lissa had been horrified at the very idea.

"Good heavens, Gail, do you want to ruin me socially?" she had gasped. "Aren't things difficult enough now, with the miserly allowance your father left me being swallowed up before we can even get our hands on it?"

"But if I got a job—" Gail had pleaded.

"You'd have to have a place to live. You couldn't commute from house party to house party to a silly little job, and it would cost more than you could earn to have the very tiniest, shabbiest sort of place. And besides, what would people think if you took a job? They'd think we were penniless, and they'd stop inviting me. Oh, Gail, dear, I do wish you wouldn't have such fantastic ideas. You give me a headache, really you do." And so Gail had apologized and the subject had been dropped, and they had gone on to the Cramerton's house party on Long Island, where they had prolonged their stay despite Martha Cramerton's tight-lipped disapproval, until it was time for them to go up to Maine to stay with the Gordons.

Gail stirred restlessly and sat up, drawing her knees up and encircling them with her arms. She looked out at the blue waters with their lacy caps of foam, wishing that she could take life in her stride as Lissa did. Lissa had toughened herself so that she could ignore slights and snubs as though they did not exist; she could prolong a week-end engagement into another invitation caught up with them, and not mind a bit that she was upsetting the household. Though Lissa was very careful not to do this if it could be avoided, for it was dangerous to wear out one's welcome and risk not receiving another invitation.

Gail got up at last, swung the toweling robe about her shoulders, and started back to the house that loomed, vast and cream-colored, along the dune behind her. It was almost cocktail time, and she didn't want to draw attention to herself by being late. She was always meticulously courteous, always placating, as though in tacit apology to an long-suffering hostess who might be annoyed with Lissa.

She reached her room without encountering anyone but the servants. She had showered and begun to dress when there was a knock at the door, and without waiting for permission, Lissa came in.

Lissa was so beautiful that Gail never failed to thrill at sight of her. Lissa was 33, but not even her bitterest enemy would have guessed her age at more than 30, and under soft shaded lights she could look even younger. Still with the exquisitely molded figure of girlhood, her hair a ripe golden-wheat color, her eyes deeply blue and long-lashed, her skin pearly perfect, she was enchanting to others besides her young daughter.

"Not mooning, precious, surely? Time you were getting dressed," said Lissa, and kissed her lightly. "You can miss cocktails if you like—the cocktail hour is a bit of a bore here. How in the world Lucia could ever get herself saddled with such a dull house party! But then, poor sweet, she was always the world's worst hostess! Simply brings together the most impossible people."

Lissa was already dressed for dinner in a superbly simple white dinner gown cut so perfectly that it had no need of any decoration except the narrow golden belt that encircled her slender waist and the flower of golden sequins embroidered on one shoulder.

She sat down gracefully. Lissa never flopped or dropped down or did anything without an exquisite grace that made, watching her a pleasure. She lit a cigarette and said quietly, "Angel child, we've got to have a serious talk."

Gail caught her breath, panic in her eyes. "You mean—Cecile, Inc. is going to sue?" she whispered, pallid.

Lissa's lovely airy brows rose a little and there was amusement in her deep blue eyes. "Good heavens, puss, whatever gave you that fantastic idea?" she exclaimed.

"Well, it IS an enormous bill, Lissa, and their last letter threatened suit." Gail felt awkward and embarrassed by her mother's amusement.

Lissa made a little deprecatory gesture. "Oh, I went in to see Paul," she said carelessly, "and took him a couple of new customers—filthy rich, but with no social pretensions whatever. Sometimes when I look at the people who have money nowadays, it makes me wonder. So absurd, really, for some people to have loads of money and not to know what to do with it. But when I presented Paul with the oh-so-rich and oh-so-naive Mrs. Justin and her owl-eyed daughter, and he saw what the pickers were going to be, he agreed to wait indefinitely for his money. Paul has made Cecile's quite a decent sort of place."

Gail winked fast, because there were tears of relief in her eyes and she knew Lissa would think that very amusing.

"I'm terribly glad," she said unsteadily.

Lissa looked at her daughter curiously for a moment, and suddenly there was compunction in her eyes.

"Poor lamb, this is all a bit trying for you, isn't it?" she said gently. "Catching invitations; playing a superlative game of bridge because we simply dare not lose; enduring petty humiliations because we simply must have clothes. You hate it, don't you, lamb?"

Gail hesitated, and then she said unsteadily, "We-e-e, it's a bit nerve wracking, isn't it?"

Lissa laughed. "Not a bit of it. It's a challenge. But since you feel the way you do, you'll be glad to hear the news I've brought you!" Lissa was smiling, but with a light in her eyes that was ever so faintly wary.

"If it's good—" said Gail and beamed happily at her lovely mother.

"But, darling, it's terribly good!" purred Lissa. "Angel, how would you like to spend the summer with your father at the plantation?"

For a moment Gail sat perfectly still, staring at her mother with incredulous eyes, too stunned for speech.

For Friday, August 22

ACCORDING to the lunar aspects, this is a day on which the more prosaic and workaday activities might be set aside for the more romantic an alluring joys and engagements pertaining to the personal life and its aspirations. Domestic, social, cultural—with particular stress on romantic, affectional and home or public celebrations or "parties"—are all right, provided there is no show of extravagance or over-indulgence in any phase of outlay.

The judgment may be foggy or indecisive and a tendency to inertia or "loafing" might not be amiss, as relaxation and diversion benefit.

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to enjoy a period of rest, diversion, relaxation or "the pursuit of happiness" rather than tackling disagreeable, onerous or unwelcome tasks in the line of duty, obligation or everyday performances. These may irk at the point of the static and crystallized, and may not be spurred into lucrative activities under a clouded or over-interested mind. Festivity, celebrations, vacations, would prove of benefit, and probably avert loss and unprofitable labors.

A child born on this day may have its interests centered on the pursuit of happiness, with romance and domestic ties to the fore, as a natural inertia might but neutralize its progress.

FOR THE first time in his life we have felt a twinge of sympathy for Emperor Hirohito of Japan. This was when we read he had taken his missus to a baseball game.

Mrs. Hi, in the best tradition of "little women," no doubt doesn't know the difference between a shin guard and a sacrifice fly.

We can see the emperor perspiring freely as he tries to explain it isn't discrimination that that little bat boy isn't allowed to play.

Then, of course, there must have been the moment when his nibs had to answer why that beautifully long hit ball didn't

"The Authority on Authorities"

HOW TO DRIVE HIM WILD

THERE ARE several ways to make an opponent gnash his teeth over having fallen for a gag that made him beat himself. One of the most exasperating is to lead a queen when the king is at your left. Its holder will usually play low if he lacks the ace, expecting that card to be opposite the leader. If he then plays low a second time, hoping the ace is now singleton and must play, he has succumbed to the device.

When the leader of the suit then lays down the ace to drop the king that could have won earlier, it is likely to just about drive the victim wild.

There is no way we know to justify soundly either West's diamond overall or South's last two bids on this duplicate deal except that he fancied his own playing ability and was straining for maximum results in the duplicate where this hand was produced. But several other pairs reached the same contract and some made played at a lower No Trump contract. The number of tricks taken depended mainly on what the defense did. Some took nine tricks, some eight and one declarer even got 10 with four in spades, two in hearts, three in diamonds and one in clubs.

But the worst score for any North-South pair came where the bidding shown was done. West led the K of East's hearts, then led to the A. Now East played South for a victim of his own near-farousness and got away with it. He led the club Q. South now placed the A with West, so played low to avoid sacrificing his K. West put on the 10. Then East led the 4. With the 3 not yet seen, South decided East had five to the Q-J-9 and West originally just the A-10. So he played low again. The J, of course, won that and the 3 came back to the A, which dropped the K. South was so mad, at both himself and East, that he could hardly play the rest of the hand as the 9 took another club trick to give him a cold bottom score.

Senate War Probe Hearings Must Maintain Dignity Or— War Contracts Settlements To Be Investigated Next

Special to Central Press

WASHINGTON—Republicans on the Senate war investigating committee intend to see that the next hearings strike a note of dignity.

The flamboyant, circus-like Hughes hearings got entirely out of hand. They produced a unique protest by a Democratic member of the committee, Senator Claude Pepper (D), Florida, against the way in which the GOP subcommittee, Senator Homer Ferguson (R), Michigan, was conducting the proceedings.

The Hughes hearings evoked general criticism from Democrats, and in the viewpoint of observers, endangered the chances of the committee's being renewed beyond its expiration date of Jan. 31.

Republicans want to get the committee continued so that it can function in the 1948 presidential election year. They admit privately that their only hope of getting a new lease on life is to have the hearings conducted henceforth on a "high and dignified" plane.

Thus, they are ready to pounce on and kill the first evidence of flamboyance in the next case, which is scheduled to be the waste of unknown millions of dollars in settlement of war contracts.

Washington • SULLIVAN'S BOOBY TRAP—It is no secret among powerful Democratic party elements that the foes of Democratic Executive Director Gael Sullivan, "The engaging young Irishman with a penchant for generalities," intend to unhorse him.

This, observers hurry to point out, can come about only if Democratic National Chairman Robert Hannegan is forced to abide by the advice of his physicians and resign, not only as chairman but as postmaster general. Chances are that Hannegan will have to quit.

One prominent Democrat said "Gael is a nice boy, but he is raw. He speaks in generalities and says little. The sooner he is edged out the better."

If Hannegan quits, Sullivan's exit will be simple. If Hannegan stays, it will be difficult. The Democrats are loyal no end to Hannegan, whose ill health has concerned them all.

• NEW RECORDS?—A Navy plane may already have flown faster than the speed of sound carrying the first human into and back from aviation's "never-never" land in the climax of man's search for knowledge of flying conditions beyond the sonic barrier.

The plane is the Douglas-built jet-propelled D-558 now being flown almost daily at Muroc Dry Lake, Cal. The Navy admits that it "has already flown at speeds where aeronautical engineering data is incomplete."

The D-558, unhampered by armor or armament and carrying only 500 pounds of research instruments, is making its flight at 30,000 feet where the speed of sound is only about 700 miles an hour due to lower atmospheric resistance in the thin air at that altitude.

• AMERICAN SUPREMACY THREATENED—America's air supremacy on the probable transatlantic runs is falling under the pressure of foreign competition from state-controlled "chosen instrument" lines which are using United States-built planes to get the trade.

Although the United States does about 75 per cent of the business on Atlantic flights, the "take" has slipped almost 10 per cent in recent months.

Much of this is due to state-subsidized foreign airlines which have government financial backing in contrast to American firms which still operate under the free enterprise system.

WARM PEACH CAKE

By BETTY NEWTON

Those luscious peaches we dreamed about are on our markets again! The ways in which they can be served are many. For breakfast, sliced peaches over cereal served with top milk is a wonderful way to start a summer day. Peaches served on a fruit salad plate or in a molded salad make a delicious luncheon dish. In an appetizing fresh fruit cup or for dessert they are perfect for dinner.

With plenty of sugar available again, we can plan to serve delicious desserts like this and give our families the "sweet ending" they enjoy so much at any meal!

Peach Cake

1 C. flour
1 1/2 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt

1 egg
1/2 C. sugar
1/4 C. orange juice
1 tsp. grated orange rind
1/2 C. shortening
1 1/2 C. sliced peaches

Glaze

1/2 C. sugar
1 tsp. grated orange rind
1 tsp. salt
1 Tbsp. water

Mix and sift flour, baking powder, and salt. Beat egg, add corn syrup, orange juice and rind. Mix with the dry ingredients. Stir in melted shortening. Spread in a greased shallow pan. Place sliced peaches on top of the batter. Mix the ingredients for the glaze and drizzle over the peaches. Bake at 350 degrees for about 55 minutes.

Mrs. Skaggs, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Mable Westenhaver, served a salad course as the guests were seated at the small card tables. Each place was marked by clever favors holding a miniature lighted candle.

Guests for the evening were Mrs. Mary Stevens, Mrs. Ross Carothers, Nelson Stevens, Michael Carothers, Dale Wolf and Mary Lou Skaggs. Plans were made for the September 4th meeting to be held in the home of Mrs. Roger Lozier, West High street.

No leftover rolls should be given the go-by in these days of wheat conservation. They can be rejuvenated by being heated in a clean paper bag which has been prepared by pouring cold water in and out of it quickly. Be sure that the water is removed before it has time to soak through the bag. The leftover rolls are put in the dampened bag, the top is twisted and the bag put in a hot oven until the rolls are thoroughly heated.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your drugist and ask for four ounces of Liquid Rennet Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonfuls twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself; eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloated disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

CHAIN LETTERS
CIRCULATED IN CENTRAL OHIO

'Get Rich Quick' Scheme
Now Uses $2 Instead
Of Depression Dime

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22.—The postwar version of the chain letter mania of depression days has finally hit central Ohio.

Reports from Ohio State University campus indicated that the newest "get rich quick" scheme has taken a firm hold today on the Summer quarter students and has spread into government and private offices in downtown Columbus.

The originators of the new "chain letter" thoughtfully tried to circumvent the post-office department's ban on using the mails to distribute lotteries or the money for lotteries. Postal authorities won't admit it, but indications are that few are likely to be prosecuted although they are technically guilty of violating the law.

THE 1947 PLAN is an obvious postwar scheme because it is based on a two-dollar initial investment instead of the depression's dime or quarter. Some plans, however, ask only for a dollar to get into the "chain."

The major difference is that the actual lists of ten names are handed from one hopeful to another in person, instead of through the mails. Only the cash is mailed. Thus no names appear in the mails to open the participants to possible prosecution.

On the two-dollar scheme, the bait is an alleged potential return of $2,048 for a two-dollar investment. The first person "sells" a friend a list of ten names for the two bucks. The friend then mails two dollars in a plain envelope to the person whose name is first on the list. He makes two copies of the list, but omits the top name to which he has sent the two dollars and adds his own name and address at the bottom.

The next step in the process is to find two more friends eager to take a chance on accumulating a pile of cash without any effort and sell each of them one of the revised lists at two bucks a shot. Thus the buyer, who has now become a seller, gets back the two he paid for the list, plus the other two that he sent to the first name on the list.

AFTER THAT is done, all he has to do is sit back and wait for the crisp bills to come rolling in up to a total of 2,048—he hopes. Also he may have a little trouble keeping other "friends" and friends of friends from getting him to bite on still more of the propositions.

Postal authorities in Columbus maintain that they have not noticed any indication of the cash going through the mails, but they are emphatic in declaring that it is illegal. They say that they have heard "rumors" that the craze has spread into the area but add that they know nothing officially.

One official pointed out that it would be rather difficult to start prosecution against anyone if a plain envelope containing two dollars and nothing else is found in the mails. Postal authorities might be morally certain that the dough just might be connected with a lottery but provided...

DODGERS PASS MIRACLE; BEAT BLACKWELL 8-1

St. Louis Gets Even Break
Against Phillies; Drop
1st 9-2, Take 2nd 13-3

NEW YORK, Aug. 22 — An even-tempered race between St. Louis and Brooklyn down the National League stretch is assured today by announcement that "Country" Slaughter, injured Cardinal outfielder, will be out of the St. Louis lineup for only a few days.

When Slaughter collided with shortstop Bernie Creger at Philadelphia yesterday, it was feared at first that Slaughter might be lost for the season. But X-rays revealed no skull fracture or other serious injury.

Temporary loss of Slaughter's services balances Brooklyn's loss of Harry Taylor, star pitcher. In fact Taylor, who is going to Johns Hopkins hospital in Baltimore for examination of an injury to his pitching elbow, may be idle for much longer than Slaughter.

The Dodgers performed a minor miracle yesterday in skinning "Eel" Blackwell of Cincinnati, who had allowed the Brooks only one run in beating them three times previously this season. The Eel, seeking his 20th win, was nipped for four runs in the fifth inning and retired after the sixth.

Clyde King, a second-stringer, went the route for the Dodgers and won, 8 to 1, increasing Brooklyn's lead over St. Louis to five games.

ST. LOUIS got no better than an even break against the Phillies. Oscar Judd held them to five hits in the opener and beat them, 9 to 2.

In the nightcap the Red Birds went on a home run spree and drubbed the Phils, 13 to 3, with Stan Musial belting two homers, one a grand slam, and Ron Northey getting one.

Boston's battering Braves, compiling a total of 31 hits, downed the Chicago Cubs twice, 8 to 2 and 6 to 4. The Braves now trail Brooklyn by 6½ games and St. Louis by only 1½, while the Cubs have lost seven straight.

Warren Spahn racked up his 16th win in the opener. The winning rally in the nightcap was started by a pinch single by pitcher Johnny Sain, who now has hit safely in 14 straight games.

Clint Hartung, the "Texas phenom" of the New York Giants, had a no-hitter going into the eighth inning against Pittsburgh under the arc lights. Then Jimmy Bloodworth, first Pittsburgh batter in the eighth, hit a single to right field.

The only other safe hit made off the "phenom" was a ninth-inning homer by Frankie Gustine which ruined a shutout for Clint Hartung also helped himself to a homer in the fifth inning, which ended New York's scoring and gave him a handsome 4-to-1 triumph.

IN THE AMERICAN League, all games were night contests except the Washington - Detroit double-header, in which the Senators not only snapped an 11-game losing streak but also downed the Tigers twice, 3 to 2 and 5 to 3. Early Wynn held the Bengals to six hits and beat Hal Newhouser in the opener, and homers by Mickey Vernon and Cecil Travis gave the Nats the edge in the nightcap.

Philadelphia's improving Athletics moved into third place in the junior circuit, ahead of Detroit, when rookie Bill McCahan

DRAKE - TARLTON
TOURNEY TILT
DUE TONIGHT

Ted Lewis park softball diamond was still wet Friday morning but continued heat during the day was expected to dry it enough to permit a Night league tournament game to be played Friday night.

Thursday evening's Drake's Produce-Tarlton contest was rained out and the teams will play at 8 p. m. Friday. This will move the Williamsport-Blue Ribbon game back to Monday night.

Mumaw's Market is scheduled to play a doubleheader Saturday night. Deeds Dairy, Lancaster, and National Jewelers, Columbus, are the scheduled opponents.

pitched his fifth straight victory in beating the St. Louis Browns, 8 to 5.

The sprightly A's are only a game and a half behind the second-place Boston Red Sox, who were tripped up by Chicago, 3 to 2. The White Sox got off to a running start against Tex Hughson, scoring all their runs in the first inning.

New York's pace-setting Yankees increased their lead over the Red Sox to 13 games by trouncing the Indians, 9 to 3. The Yanks have yet to be beaten in Cleveland this season.

Philadelphia's improving Athletics moved into third place in the junior circuit, ahead of Detroit, when rookie Bill McCahan

SEVEN SHOOTERS TIED FOR LEAD AT VANDALIA

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 22—Seven men were tied for top honors today in the preliminary handicap of the Grand American trapshoot, but there were still some 500 marksmen to compete.

As the 48th "Roaring Grand" neared its climax, the top shooters were R. E. Cockel, Wilmington, Ill., with 99x100 from the 18-yard line; D. M. Long, Pittsburgh, Pa., with 99 from 20 yards; George Baille, Salem, O., 99 from 17 yards; Wilson Lasater, Kansas City, 99 from 17 yards; John Broughton, Ferguson, Mo., 99 from 21 yards; Joe Enzenberger, Chicago, 99 from 18 yards, and J. J. Rogers, Kansas City, 99 from 18 yards.

The Grand American itself was scheduled to get under way at noon with some 1,800 entries expected, and is expected to be concluded at noon tomorrow. However, the record-breaking entry list may delay both start and finish.

Some 700 shooters of the 1,750 entered in the preliminaries were still to go through the traps today to finish their firing.

BIRDS FALTER, HOLD ONLY HALF GAME MARGIN

By International News Service
Toledo wasn't much help to its Columbus partner in the American Association today, but St. Paul was making it easier for Kansas City to clinch the minor league pennant.

The Mud Hens lost a twin bill to third-place Milwaukee yesterday, 7 to 2 and 8 to 6, while the Red Birds, who are valiantly trying to displace the Brewers, were set back by the league-leading Kansas City Blues, 4 to 2.

With St. Paul nosing out Louisville, 4 to 3, the day's results found the Blues nine full games in the lead and the Red Birds, as a result of Toledo's twin loss and their own defeat, two games behind the Brewers and only a half game ahead of fifth-place Indianapolis.

The Hoosiers, meanwhile, were setting up their own ticket to take over from Columbus and move into fourth spot with a 10-to-3 victory over the Minneapolis Millers.

ASHVILLE REDS ON ROAD FOR TWIN PROGRAM

Ashville Reds, seeking to sew up the championship of the South Central Ohio Baseball league, will play a doubleheader at Jeffersonville Sunday.

Manager Carl Gulick is expected to use Leonard Hornsby and Mark Wylie on the mound in an effort to win two games from the fifth place Jeffersonville club.

Since Lancaster is playing a twin bill with seventh place Greenfield, the Reds will be trying extra hard to win. The Glassmen are expected to win both games with Greenfield and if the Reds drop a game the Lancaster team may cut the

District Champions To Stay
In Springfield During
Finals Play

Members of the Richards Implement team left Friday at 8 a. m. for Springfield, where they will compete in the state softball tournament.

Champions of district 8, the Richards club will vie with representatives of the other 14 districts and a host team for the Ohio championship and a trip to regional tournament.

The first Circleville team to play in state softball finals was scheduled to begin play at 1 p. m. Friday. First opponent is the Ashland Indians, Ashland. It previously had been announced by district officials that Richards would play an Akron team, but a check with state tournament officials proved this was incorrect.

IF THE IMPLEMENT men win their first game they play at 8 p. m. Friday, against the Springfield host team. If they win again they do not play again until Sunday at 8 p. m. in the semi-finals. Finals are set for Monday night.

If Richards loses in its first start, the team will play again at 1 p. m. Saturday and if the local club wins then it will play again Sunday at 1 p. m. In the event Richards wins Friday afternoon and loses Friday night, the team plays again Saturday at 2 p. m.

MOST OF the members of the team will remain in Springfield for the entire tournament. They have reservations at the Shawnee and Bancroft hotels. Sunday afternoon Manager Ernest "Snap" Ankrom, Bob Tracey, Carl and Harold Gulick will leave the squad to play with Ashville Reds in the South Central Ohio Baseball league.

Players on the roster for the district champions in the state finals are: Ed Whaley, Harold Gulick, Carl Gulick, Robert Moon, Bill Ankrom, Manager Ankrom, Fred Immelt, Jack McGuire, Lloyd Shaw, Guy Easter, Todd McKinney, Robert Tracey, Paul Long, Max Woods, Bud Parker, Dick Wellington and Joe Drake.

Reports on the progress of the team may be obtained by calling 581.

ROBINSON DROPS SECRET IN IST WITH RIGHT CROSS

AKRON, O., Aug. 22—Welterweight champion Ray "Sugar" Robinson convinced the skeptics today that he still has his punch following his one-round kayo of Sammy Secret last night in the Akron rubber bowl.

Robinson flattened Secret for the full-count with the only right hand punch he threw in the fight. The terrific right cross followed a series of left jabs that had the veteran Secret in trouble for the one minute 50 seconds which the fight lasted.

One unusual incident occurred when Secret's handlers carried him into the ring to avoid getting his shoes wet on the rain-soaked grass. The Pittsburgh fighter left the ring under his own power.

The match was a benefit affair for the mother of Jimmy Doyle, who died of injuries after his bout with the welter champion last June in Cleveland. Rain held the crowd to 4,865 who paid $9,542 to see the fight.

Hot And Humid Weather Boon To Pickaway County Corn Growers

DELAYED GRAIN CROP EXPECTED TO MATURE NOW

Only Extended Dry Period Will Prevent Good Yield, Boggs Says

Hot, sticky, humid nights—nights during which humans writhe in torment—nights and days like those of the last two weeks are the answer to the corn farmer's prayer for help in maturing his crop ahead of the first fall frost, John Boggs said today.

Chairman of the Pickaway county AAA Committee, Boggs said he did not believe the hot weather would harm the corn crop unless a prolonged period of dry weather sets in.

There was plenty of moisture in the ground before the hot spell, and the heavy dews of the mornings are aiding, he said. Even on gravelly land there has not been any harmful effects.

Corn has a good color and needs only continued moisture and hot nights to make a steady growth, he added.

OTHER CROPS in the county have not been hurt by the hot weather, agricultural leaders report.

Delayed by Spring cold weather and rains, crops now are making up for lost time. Hot and humid weather has made for rapid growth and there have been enough clouds to keep the hot sun from "sunburning" growing grain, vegetables and hay.

Discomfort among livestock on county farms has been noted but few farmers have suffered animal losses as the result of the heat. Few horses are used in cultivating the soil and the intense heat has not materially held up necessary farm work.

AMENDMENT ON GASOLINE TAX MAY BE VOTED

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22 — A constitutional amendment to earmark all gasoline tax and motor vehicle revenues for highway and street purposes almost certainly will be placed on the ballot at the Nov. 4 election.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hummel declared today that signatures filed to place the proposal on the ballot were insufficient "by about 2,000 names." However, supplemental petitions were taken out immediately and sponsors promised to file sufficient additional, valid signatures in the next ten days.

A total of 230,375 signatures—ten per cent of the vote cast for governor at the last election—is needed. The sponsors, the Ohio Committee for Better Roads and Streets, filed some 193,000 signatures from all 88 counties. But a check by local election boards invalidated some 65,000 because they were signed with lead pencil or because they were names of non-registered voters.

TENANT HELD AFTER DEATH ENDS ARGUMENT

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22—Joseph A. Gangidine's feud with his landlord, Sanford Murphy, 31, was over today but Gangidine faced even more trouble as a result.

The 25-year-old Cleveland was held by police today in connection with the fatal shooting of Murphy yesterday. Murphy died in Fairview park hospital from a bullet wound over his left eye.

According to police, the two men became involved in an argument in the basement of the two-family home Murphy owned. In the scuffle that followed, Gangidine told police he was struck on the head with a pop bottle.

Gangidine said he then wanted to scare Murphy with a pistol he had but that his arm was deflected when he fired.

SCHOOL LUNCH PROGRAM BEING REVISED IN OHIO

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 22—Cancellation of all 1068 public school lunch program contracts effective Aug. 25 was announced today by state education director Clyde Hissong.

Hissong declared that agencies which had reimbursable contracts must negotiate new agreements under the 1947-48 schedule which has been cut 26.6 per cent from last year if they wanted to continue their participation.

Chairman R. M. Garrison, of the elementary and secondary education division, who will handle contract negotiations, asserted there would be no funds available this year for purchase of lunch room equipment. He explained that in contract writing increased emphasis will be placed on "need and attendance."

Columnist Tells Rotarians Annual Event Should Have More Pumpkins

Circleville's annual Pumpkin Show is fast becoming a pumpkin show without a pumpkin, Johnny Jones, Columbus Dispatch columnist, declared Thursday at the regular Rotary luncheon meeting at Hanley's.

Condemning the show as now only a carnival, Jones, Rotarian after-dinner speaker, said there should be pumpkins, pumpkins and more pumpkins—pumpkins everywhere with plenty of pumpkin pies for sale.

PUMPKINS MUST be the keynote of the show if it is to continue a success, he said, urging that huge quantities be displayed everywhere. Better entertainment should be provided with prominent people being brought here like Ted Lewis or his equal, according to Jones.

During his speech Jones also praised the street lights, predicted prosperity was here to stay for quite a while, stated that the world hates us, called Russia a big bluff who will not stop until we stop her; and urged the United States to shove our ideas down Russia's throat, predicting that no bloodshed would result if we did so.

PRINTERS DARE EMPLOYMENT OF NON-UNION HELP

CLEVELAND, Aug. 22 — Employers of newspaper and commercial composing room workers virtually were dared today by the AFL-International Typographical Union to hire nonunion help.

The ITU, in convention session yesterday in Cleveland, amended its century-old constitution to provide that hereafter no written contracts will be negotiated with employers. Instead, the printers will work under "conditions of employment so long as they are individually able and willing."

Woodruff Randolph, president of the ITU, said the policy is intended to preserve the closed shop without a written guarantee.
